

Duel in the Shade

Actors Relive History

By FRANK LAPIERRE
A bronze historical landmark plaque, that had been missing for nearly 10 years from the site of California's most famous pistol duel, was re-dedicated last week.

Located in a grassy ravine on the Daly City-San Francisco border, the plaque marks the spot where Senator David C. Broderick faced State Supreme Court Chief Justice David Smith Terry on Sept. 13, 1859.

Not only did the duel end the life of Senator Broderick, it ended for all time duelling in California.

Some say Broderick was goaded into the duel by Terry.

Others note that Broderick was considered an expert shot and allege his French duelling pistol had been tampered with, causing its hair trigger action to fire into the ground in front of Terry.

It is known that Broderick, a northerner, took the cause of slavery to heart and battled against such acts while in the U.S. Senate.

And it was likewise a known fact that Terry fought for the south as a Confederate General.

Political ambitions came between the two men during their climb to power in the Bay Area.

The rivalry came to a head when Broderick read a newspaper article concerning a speech Terry made in Sacramento to the State Democratic Convention that purportedly made derogatory remarks about Broderick.

Broderick retaliated by letting it be known he no longer considered Terry capable or honest enough to be a Chief Justice.

It was an odd turn of events, inasmuch as Broderick had, only 12 years before, bought newspaper space to defend Terry after he stabbed a man during an argument over a friend's arrest warrant.

On Sept. 12, 1859, following a series of insults and counter insults from both men and their supporters, it was agreed to meet in the dell east of Lake Merced — now the site of the Lake Merced Hill apartment complex being built by Gerson Baker of San Mateo.

Word had gotten out about the duel and people began converging on the area before sunrise.

So foggy was the area on this particular morning that both sides were late in showing up for the appointed match. Waiting for them, when they did arrive, was police chief Martin J. Marks, who carried a warrant for their arrest signed by San Mateo County Justice W. B. Marcon.

Both men went to court where it was hurriedly decided no crime had been committed (duelling was illegal, but tolerated). As they left the courthouse, Terry and Broderick agreed to meet the following morning in the same area at sunrise.

The morning of Sept. 13 dawned bright and a small crowd had gathered when the men faced each other, each with a single shot duelling pistol at his side.

They would walk 10 paces, turn and fire.

The steps were counted off. The men turned, and Broderick's pistol fired prematurely, striking the ground some 10 feet in front of Terry.

Terry took aim and fired, the bullet striking Broderick in the right chest and perforating his lung.

His seconds loaded the Senator into a wagon and gently drove him the many miles back to the home of Leondis Haskell at Black Point near the Golden Gate.

Broderick died three days later from loss of blood and infection.

Terry, already having resigned his Chief Justice's post, made his way to Stockton where he owned a ranch.

The duel made Terry one of the most unpopular people in the country and on Sept. 23, 1859 he was arrested and hauled before County Judge M. C. Blake to account for his part in the shooting.

Supporters of Terry quickly posted the $10,000 bail set by the judge and were successful in having the trial moved to San Rafael — away from San Francisco.

When witnesses failed to appear in court on time on the day of the Terry trial, all charges were dropped.

There were more cries of "foul" from Broderick supporters who alleged someone had turned the clocks ahead in the courtroom so witnesses would arrive late.

This ended the Terry-Broderick issue, but it did not close the book on the fiery-tempered Terry's life.

The veteran of the Confederate Army, former Texas Ranger and active participant in the Mexican War (a considered expert with the famed "Bowie knife" and an ardent card player) made headlines twice more in his 66 year life.

In one of the most scandalous stories ever to circulate through the "Old West," Terry fell in love with a beautiful client — Sarah Althea Hill — whom he represented in a years-long court fight. Miss Hill claimed she was the wife of Senator William Sharon by contract marriage.

The millionaire Senator denied this.

During the litigation, widower Terry married Miss Hill.

After years of litigation, Terry's successor to the Chief Justice bench, Stephen J. Field, threw out Miss Hill's marriage claims.

This set the stage for the final scene in the life of Terry.

He denounced Field (See Page 2, Column 1)

Court Ruling May Halt Luxury Complex Project

Work on a $12 million luxury apartment-recreation complex being built by developer Gerson Baker on 12 acres of land adjacent to Daly City may be stopped following a Superior Court ruling Friday invalidating a California Coastal Commission ruling.

Superior Court Judge Ira Brown Jr. ruled in favor of a group calling itself "Save Lake Merced" which had charged the state Coastal Commission had not followed proper procedure in disallowing cross examination of pro-development witnesses and staff reports.

The complex is now half complete.

The land was purchased by Baker — owner of some 3000 apartment units in Daly City — about two years ago from the San Francisco Golf and Country Club. It is located immediately east of Lake Merced on the Daly City line with San Francisco.

Baker, and government officials, venture the court ruling could have far-reaching effects on all permits granted by the Coastal Commission since it came into being slightly more than a year ago.

Only yesterday the Central Coastal Zone Conservation Commission excluded Daly City from coastal zone permit requirements because the agency felt Daly City "was fully developed" and that application for such permits would place undue hardships on homeowners wanting to improve their property.

How Judge Brown's ruling will affect this finding is not known, a city official said.

Baker was reportedly "stunned and shocked" when told of the ruling.

He said he had followed all the necessary rules before starting his 200 unit Lake Merced Hill project.

Asked if the project would remain open, Baker said he did not know.

From the outset, the proposed apartment project had drawn sharp criticism from conservationist groups.

A group of Lowell High School students, led by Jonathan Hoff, attacked the project before local planning agencies and the Coastal Commission.

The teenaged group lost one battle after another as the project application progressed from the San Francisco Planning Commission level, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, North Central Coastal Commission and, finally, the State Coastal Commission.

Hoff next brought a new suit against Baker's project by charging the State Coastal Commission did not conduct its hearings properly — excluding cross-examination of witnesses and not allowing challenges of staff reports made on the issue.

The Coastal Zone initiative came into being following a referendum initiative during the 1972 statewide elections.

It was hailed by its supporters as being the protector of the state's diminishing coastline.

Control zones for development were established under the new law, for 1000 yards back from high tide marks.

Baker's development falls within that category limitation.

Judge Brown remanded Baker's permit back to the Coastal Commission for a rehearing.

It was also expected that a request for an injunction to stop further construction will be requested perhaps as soon as next week.

In the Daly City ruling, the Coastal Commission did not exempt some 350 homes along the coastline from seeking zone permits for remodeling or modification to homes in excess of $7,500.

State Bids to End Walkout

Strike Hits Mary's Help

The impact of the five-day-old strike by more than 4,000 Bay Area nurses "is severe enough" to require that nurses and hospital administrators return to the bargaining table, a state Conciliation Service official said.

Ralph F. Duncan, supervisor of the Conciliation Service, urged all parties "to exert every effort to resolve the dispute."

Duncan said both sides had agreed to participate in a 2 p.m. meeting Tuesday at a San Francisco hotel.

The nurses' 40 Northern California hospitals, including three hospitals in San Mateo County. More than 300 registered nurses, members of the California Nurses Association, have struck at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco, and Kaiser Hospital in Redwood City.

The strike is supported by leaders of the 800,000-member American Nursing Association, presently meeting in San Francisco. The ANA leaders Monday gave unofficial support to the Bay Area nurses strike.

At the urging of ANA President Rosamond Gabrielson, many delegates joined CNA nurses at picket lines in front of struck hospitals in San Francisco. Other nurses attending the convention wore blue armbands to show support for the strike demands.

Dr. Ada Jacox, chairman of the ANA Commission on Economic and General Welfare, told a news conference that the ANA was "vitaly concerned with nurses' rights to professional self-determination. There is a great deal of national support for the striking San Francisco nurses."

The CNA called the strike after negotiations broke down last Thursday with three private hospital groups. The hospitals have cancelled non-essential operations and sent some patients home. Many nurses agreed to staff emergency facilities, but doctors and supervisors have had to perform some nursing duties.

The CNA is demanding more training for nurses who are employed in such critical areas as coronary and intensive care units, every other weekend off, and a 5.5 per cent wage hike.

CNA spokesperson Lila Jones said Monday, however, that "salary is not the key issue." The main issue, she continued, is the CNA demand for better trained nurses for specialty areas.

Woman Forced from DC Home

A man was seen leaving a Daly City home Thursday morning dragging a 19-year-old woman, screaming and struggling, to his car and driving off, according to police.

Although police have a statewide alert out for the man, they have not yet labeled the incident a definite kidnapping.

The victim is Jioconda Monje, 19, who at the time of the incident was babysitting at a home on Perita Drive, Daly City police said.

Police are looking for the owner of the car, Rafael Rivera, 1219 Hyperion Ave., Los Angeles, said to be a cousin of the victim.

Miss Monje recently came to this area from Los Angeles; police suspect she is now being returned there.

Police put up roadblocks Thursday and a helicopter was dispatched to scan the area. However both tactics failed to detect the get-away car, described as a purple Ford convertible.

Police believe the two persons are natives of Nicaragua.

Keeping in Shape To Cope With Crime

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Daly City's Police Department boasts of the number of man hours expended to keep its personnel in a position to better combat the mounting crime rate in the city through upgraded training programs.

Acting Police Chief David Hansen feels the programs prepared officers to better cope with the more sophisticated crimes encountered by law enforcement agencies today.

Earlier this month, 12 officers were assigned to various training programs around the county at the same time.

Capt. Richard C. Sims was attending the FBI Academy at Quantico, Va. for the past two months. He is expected to graduate from the academy this month and return to Daly City.

Officer Steven Lowe, part of the North County's combined crime prevention strike force made up of officers from South San Francisco, Pacifica, Daly City and San Bruno, is attending a month-long crime prevention course at the University of Louisville, Ky.

Six officers — Warren Keith, Lee Jett, Carlos Carrillo, Fred Gualco, James Ball and Charles Cooper — have been assigned to the San Francisco Police Academy for four months of basic training in crime fighting techniques, sponsored by the Peace Officers Standards and Training Program.

Three detectives recently completed courses around the State:

Det. Terry Hanebeck participated in a week-long juvenile investigation seminar at Asilomar; Det. John Kirby returned from a one week narcotics investigator's school conducted in San Jose, and Det. Les Bastedo finished a three-day investigator's school held in Sacramento.

Sergeant Roger Austin has been enrolled in a two-day Defensive Driver (instructor) school in Redwood City.

This "formal" training is in addition to the normal everyday training and periodic crowd control courses the department undertakes, Capt. Hansen points out.

Hansen, author of five books on police techniques, feels the special training "pays off in a big (See Page 2, Column 3)

Supervised Playground Activities to End

Supervised spring recreation activities at municipal parks and playgrounds in Daly City will end today, but some summer programs will start June 24, the Daly City Recreation Department announced Friday.

Ed Tomasello of the recreation department said that while the parks and playgrounds will be open, there will not be supervision June 12-24.

The total recreation program is set to start July 1.

Initially, programs will be conducted at Westmoor, Westlake, Marchbanks, Gellert and Lincoln Parks, as well as the War Memorial Building.

Daly City Man Charged With Burglary, Rape

A Daly City man was arrested Saturday and charged with burglary and forcible rape after he allegedly climbed the outside wall of a building to his victim's apartment three stories above street level.

Police identified the man as Walter T. Kristofferson, 37, a painter employed in San Francisco.

According to police, Kristofferson entered the apartment of his ex-girlfriend — a way" through better protection for Daly City's 72,000 citizens.

Daly City has also been the site of POST crowd control training for the county's 18 cities.

Police from these Peninsula communities join for a special one-day training session, topped off by inviting college students to stage a "sit-in" in order to give police practical experience in coping with such incidents.

A monthly magazine entitled "Police Chief," the "Professional voice of law enforcement," last month carried an extensive article on Daly City's methods of training police — praising the goals the department has set.

The major drawback to some parts of the local program, the magazine article explains, is that veteran law enforcement officers feel the one-day sessions are "somewhat beneath them."

"This is unfortunate," says Hansen, author of the article, "though not completely unexpected. The test is in the doing and they all do well."

The two men were aboard the same train bound for San Francisco from Los Angeles in August 1889 — 30 years after Broderick's death — when Terry walked over to Chief Justice Field during lunch at the Lathrup, California Southern Pacific depot.

Terry slapped Field twice and challenged him to a duel.

In the ensuing scuffle with Field's bodyguard, Terry was fatally shot and killed.

Participating in the rededication ceremonies last week near the site of the duel, were Mrs. Kent Kaiser of Atherton, Chairman of the State Historic Landmarks Commission; Dr. Albert Shumate, past-president of the California Historical Society; Alfred Wilsey, chairman of Gerson Bakar, Inc., and Leslie Merrill, director of the San Mateo County Historical Association.

The actual spot where the two men duelled had been marked with two granite shafts, but otherwise neglected.

Some two years ago efforts were made by Daly City and San Mateo County workers, Boy Scouts and Historical Society members to clean up the spot and turn it into a small picnic-historical area. However, access to the dell was restricted and very hard to locate.

With the cooperation of Gerson Bakar both the marker, noting the spot, and access have been improved. It was learned.

Trustees Allocate Recreation Funds

Jefferson Elementary School District plans to spend funds it previously allocated yearly to the Daly City Recreation Department, to pay noontime yard supervisors, and to finance community use of its facilities at night. Supt. Keith Breon said Thursday.

Breon said $30,000 of the nearly $50,000 the district has contributed to Daly City and $10,000 to Broadmoor for recreation, would be diverted to its own noontime recreation program.

Supervisors of noon programs currently are paid out of the district's general funds, said Breon.

He said the remainder of the Civic Center funds which the district receives through a special tax, will be used to pay for custodial, maintenance, utilities and other expenses "incidental to evening use of district buildings and equipment at night."

This includes various clubs, PTAs, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, he said.

"Some of our schools are used five nights a week," Breon said.

Daly City officials had indicated publicly, Breon said, that they did not know how the school district would use the funds.

Breon also pointed out that district playgrounds are never closed to the public — for either supervised or non-supervised activities — and it "is not the intent of the board that they shall be."

Various youth and adult baseball league teams use the diamonds on school playgrounds daily, Breon said.

"It has been our position all along," Breon said, "that the playgrounds will be available for community use — after school, on the weekends and during the summer, supervision or not."

The facilities are offered to the city of Daly City, "if it wants them," Breon said.

The use of the playgrounds was brought up at last week's board of trustee meeting. One trustee, Mrs. Beverly Forrester said the district would continue to provide, as it has in the past, custodial care, maintenance, gardening and utilities.

Special JESD Review Committee Chosen

The Jefferson Elementary School District's administration is putting together professional and community committees for the selection of a new superintendent.

Trustees of the Daly City-Colma District approved the addition last Wednesday of two out-of-county educators to a professional screening committee of three.

Supt. Keith Breon, who is leaving the district this summer, in the meantime has contacted various civic and community organizations.

He said after the board meeting Wednesday he has contacted the Hillside, Westlake and Broadmoor property owners' associations, asking them to select a representative on a citizens' committee.

Breon said teachers, classified persons, management and support personnel also have been asked for representation, as were two members at large from the community—City Councilman William Schumacher and City Librarian Samuel Chandler.

In other business Wednesday, the trustees:

- Accepted a gift of magazine subscriptions from the Garden Village PTA.

- Adopted a resolution formally declaring the intent to sell its Thornton School property to the Jefferson High School District for $140,000.

- Granted the Daly City 4-H Club permissive use of a strip of John F. Kennedy School property as an access road to the 4-H site.

- Appointed counselor Jan Bender as the new vice principal of Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School.

- Authorized $600 expenditure as its share of the cost of purchasing drapery and track for the Westlake School multi-purpose room stage. The PTA is paying the other half.

- Tabled selection of the district's summer paint crew.

- Tabled until June 19 the selection of a nominee to replace Jack Jones, who resigned recently as a member of the Personnel Commission. Three names were placed into nomination by trustees before Trustee Al Schwarzbach moved to table the matter. The citizens so far named for consideration are Mrs. John Mibelli, Mrs. Maxine Abe and Clarence Dunow.

- Agreed to put on the June 12 study session agenda discussion on the district's speech program.

Hillside Group Meets

Regular meeting of the Hillside Homeowners Association in Daly City will be held Friday at 7:45 p.m. at Colma K-6 School. President is Frank J. Loretta.

Trustees Rap PTA Report

Two Jefferson Elementary School District trustees Wednesday lambasted a proposed Parent-Teacher Association questionnaire seeking community input on priorities.

Both Beverly Forrester and Al Schwarzbach questioned the validity of the questionnaire, presented in first-draft form by the Jefferson Council of PTA's in the Daly City-Colma area.

The JCPTA attached a sample of the questionnaire to a letter from President Alma Dubus asking the JESD for funds with which to print and mail it to the citizens.

A representative of the JCPTA, Mrs. Nancy Thomas, said at least two of the questions had been changed at some point after their completion by the JCPTA and their submission to the board.

She said the questionnaire was only a rough draft. She later indicated the JCPTA had expected at least three drafts prior to formal presentation. She said the first draft had been given to the JESD administration to complete statistical portions and to add its own suggested input.

She also said some of the information, challenged as incorrect by Mrs. Forrester, came from a district administrator.

Schwarzbach was adamant in his opposition.

He thought frequent public meetings would be more representative of the public, and he asked Mrs. Thomas why the JCPTA believed the questionnaire would be better.

The community does not believe the board "is listening," she replied.

Supt. Breon said he believed the board is listening, but does not agree with what it has heard.

Mrs. Ruth Galindo, another JCPTA member, said a questionnaire distributed four years ago by the PTA effectively measured community thinking.

Breon took a generally negative view of the questionnaire. He and others opposing it said they believe valid answers could not be given unless background information regarding each question were part of the questionnaire — which, in draft form, included 12 questions.

Trustee David Parker, who also said citizens should understand the budgetary problems of the district before responding to questions and giving their preferences on proposed programs, said, nonetheless, he would consider "the money well spent" to gain the input.

That the questionnaire might include information on a meeting on the district's program cutback proposals particularly interested him, Parker said.

Board Chairwoman Dorothy Adams said she believed many persons were unwilling to spend three hours at a meeting, or did not have transportation or babysitters so they could attend meetings.

The district has held some meetings, because the board has indicated an intent to curtail some nursing, special education and music programs.

Of those attending — upwards of 100 at most — the meetings, the majority have expressed outrage over the trustees' actions. They want all the programs to remain.

BBB Warns Watch That Extra Income Pitch

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor of BBB Barometer

"Grow Mushrooms, cellar, shed or garage, spare time, year round. We pay $3.75 per pound. Make $4,000 in a few weeks!"

While the majority of people take such an ad with a grain of salt the fact remains that hundreds of such schemes take an estimated half billion dollars yearly from shut-ins, cripples, housewives and elderly citizens who are looking for extra retirement income.

In over 60 years of Better Business Bureau investigations into such ads not one of the companies that came to the attention of the Bureau were found to actually offer real employment as implied or to guarantee a market at a fixed price for finished products.

Recently a new angle on a nursery stock scheme was reported. For fees ranging from $2,500 and up, a firm supplied plant stock. While the stock matured the would-be nurseryman raised house plants in a greenhouse he had to assemble himself.

The firm guaranteed verbally that the growers would make a profit of not less than $5,000 a year. Inquiry among established nurserymen refuted this claim. There is no short supply of shrubs or house plants, and even if the inexperienced individual were reasonably successful in producing crops, he would then be faced with the difficult task of finding a market that is now well served by established firms.

Thoroughly investigate any offer before investing. A slick promoter can make anything sound like a sure thing. There is no easy way to earn up to $20,000... no selling necessary... guaranteed income.

Be on the lookout for advertisements which sound "too good to be true." They are often get-rich schemes which make the firm, rather than the investor rich.

One of the worst evils of the home work racket is that investors rarely ever recover their money. When the racketeers do come under the heat of the law they disappear and surface later with a new promotion and a new name or, continue the same enterprise under a new name and address. If you have been victimized by a promotion, file a complaint. It may save someone else from the same fate.

Spring '74 Shows Skyline College Continues to Grow

Skyline College continues to be the San Mateo Community College District's growing educational institution.

The latest enrollment data issued by Rex Butler, associate dean of admissions and records, reveals that the enrollment from Spring '73 to the current Spring '74 term has jumped from 5164 to 5462 students for an overall growth of 5.8 per cent. The day increase is 7.7 per cent (2432 to 2619 students) while the evening total went from 2732 to 2843 students for a 4.1 jump.

Freshman students counted for nearly two-thirds of the student enrollment as the group comprised 62 per cent (1622 students) during the day; 66 per cent (1866 students) in the evening classes. The day full-time student totaled 1705 students for 65 per cent of the enrollment.

Students from the ethnic-minority backgrounds totaled 26.1 per cent of the day and evening total with 841 students (32.1 per cent) in the day and 582 students (20.5 per cent) in the evening for a total of 1423 students.

As to the cities where students come from, the four North San Mateo County communities continue to send nearly 70 per cent of the students. They are Daly City with 1286 students (23.5 per cent); Pacifica, 1157 (21.2 per cent); San Bruno, 979 (17.9 per cent); South San Francisco, 965 (17.7 per cent).

The age group differentials for the day and evening students also proved to be an interesting bit of statistics as 7.1 per cent of the day students are in the age group of 17 to 24 years, while the evening college enrollees during the spring term were 67.0 per cent from the ages of 25 to 35 and over.

SSF Home Destroyed

A mother and two children returned home from visiting a relative at 10 p.m. June 4, to find their South San Francisco home engulfed in flames.

Firemen, who were called to the scene of the fire, at 217 Mansfield Drive, found the flames so intense that they were unable to save the house. The interior and all the furnishings were destroyed, according to firemen. Only the garage, which was protected by a fire-door, was saved.

Firemen at first feared there might be occupants in the house. Searching quickly, they found only a dog, whose ears were singed.

It is believed the fire started in the living room; its cause is under investigation. Neighbors offered the homeless family aid, but the Red Cross took the mother, Mrs. Mary E. Stockton and the children ages 5 and 10 under its wing.

South San Francisco firemen managed to save another home whose garage had burst into flames when a neighbor pulled a nearby alarm box at 4 p.m. That was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank King, 3900 Crofton Way, in Westborough.

End of School Activities at TN

By ANN HILO
Campus Correspondent

As the 1973-74 school year comes to an end, many Terra Novans are reading senior issues of Tiger Tales and yearbooks.

Others are studying for finals and planning vacations. Seniors are buying "All Night Party Tickets" for $4.25 (guests $5.25) and other members of the student body are buying their school rings. Old and new Spirit Staff members are meeting to plan for next year.

But there is probably a majority of the student body who feel the last weeks of school are a waste of time. "Especially if one's grades are turned in on Tuesday, and one has Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to wait till he can officially leave," stated a Terra Nova girl.

Terra Novans had these comments about the last week of school:

"The last week of school is a waste of time" — Karen Kerby.

"The last week of school is pretty good — it's the week when there is the most fun." — Rick Wathen.

"The teachers are more strict during the last week of school." — Scott Serven.

"I think it's a relaxed atmosphere and there's not that much work." — Margaret Battaion.

"It's boring and I don't think they should have a last week of school." — Barbara Hagenstein.

"I'm really getting bored of being bored. As far as I'm concerned I don't have a last week of school because I didn't have any finals in my classes." — Dennice Riewerts.

"It brings sadness to my heart as I leave my childhood years." — Don Blasingame.

"One shouldn't have to go — we have graduation practice in the last week of school. Also, it's brutal, because at the beginning of the week everything is due." — Gary Gutierrez.

"I think they should let us come to school for only the classes in which we have exams." — April Schneider.

"I'm looking forward to seeing graduation practice if they let me." — Jan Wharton.

Cast Set For 'Animal Farm'

The Pacifica Spindrift Players announce that the cast has been chosen for their next production, George Orwell's "Animal Farm" as adapted for the stage by Nelson Bond.

This version is a "Readers Theater" version, a totally new venture and experience for the players and for most theatergoers.

The cast consists of eight "readers", each of whom take various roles including that of a narrator. The cast of eight are: Kathy McIntyre, Luther Spraker, Paul Brenke, Brent Burgess, Stuart McIntyre, Bev Gabrieli and Lisa Levine. The play is being directed by Gary Nelson and the assistant director is Dorothy Brenke.

George Orwell's well known political satire seems to be even more timely today than when it was written. Under the readers theater version, the audience will be swept into the sometimes funny and sometimes tragic happenings, and group of farm animals overthrows its "human" masters and sets up its own government.

"Animal Farm" will open its six performance run on Friday evening July 5 at Oddstad Park center, 1000 block of Crespi Drive, Pacifica. Performances are at 8:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. Tickets will be available at the door.

Adreveno Named Skyline Editor

Linda Adreveno will be Skyline College's - Skyline Press - editor-in-chief beginning the Fall '74 term as the result of the election held by the members of the newspaper staff.

The former assistant editor and associate editor will take over the top post along with a group of veterans from this past spring's group. The new assistant editor is Mary Van Zant; associate editor, Bob Polzoni; feature editor, Joe Krumm; and sports editor, Tony Bizjak.

Being the editor-in-chief is not a new post for Adreveno as she was the editor of the Jefferson High School Tom Tom as well as the school's student body president.

Sports editor Tony Bizjak, also a Jefferson High Tom Tom newspaper editor and student leader, during the past year has been a sports reporter for the Skyline Press.

Van Zant, in taking over the assistant editor's post, moves from the feature editor desk after a freshman year in which she has won numerous awards including the Skyline Press Freedom of the Press honor and the Community College Award by the Association of Catholic Newsmen (Msgr. Francis A. Quinn Award) for her series on pornography.

Two former Serra High students Bob Polzoni and Joe Krumm will move out of the reporter ranks to their respective editor stations. Polzoni, a South San Francisco resident, has been the Skyline Press' leading political reporter during the spring term, while Krumm, a former reporter on the Serra Friar newspaper, and a resident of San Bruno, during the spring term covered a variety of beats from sports to music to politics.

Other returning staff members include Maureen Brady (St. Rose Academy, San Francisco); Forrest Miller (Crestmoor High, San Bruno); and Melodie Soss (Capuchino, San Bruno).

Moving from the Journalism 2-Newswriting class to becoming regular members of the Skyline Press staff are Tom Borgo (Pacifica); Dean Chalos (Westmoor, Daly City); Pam Cronin (Crestmoor High, San Bruno); Doug Goldie (Crestmoor High, San Bruno); Marc Ryan (South San Francisco).

"Along with these fine editors and staffers, we should have another good group of journalism students from the North County high schools. The Skyline Press has been fortunate in having excellent students from the neighboring high schools. The professional training they have received from their teachers has enabled our college to develop an effective journalism program," Sam Goldman, Skyline College journalism instructor, said.

Hopefuls Seek Chief's Post

Eight applicants for the position of South San Francisco police chief were interviewed Wednesday by a special oral board.

All eight are police captains, lieutenants or sergeants currently with the South San Francisco Police Department.

A new chief is being sought to replace Sal Rosano, cleaned out his desk Friday to take over as police chief at Santa Rosa.

Capt. Jim Datzman was named as interim chief.

The chief's position pays a range of $22,079 to $26,837, with the new man likely to begin at the lowest rung.

The oral board consists of a city manager, two police chiefs, a retired personnel director and one representative from the state Peace Officers Standards and Training (POST) commission — all from outside the immediate area.

City Manager Ed Alario also is sitting in as an observer. He will consider the recommendations of the board, then make his recommendation to the City Council, which will make the final decision.

To qualify for appointment, a candidate must have 10 years police experience, and four years supervisory experience, plus a bachelor of arts degree, or an equivalent education in terms of college and POST training.

Should all eight candidates from the department be found to lack qualifications, the city can go statewide in its search for a new chief. However, such a move is unlikely, in the opinion of David Haughey, personnel assistant to the city manager.

Grand Jury Raps Education Board

The San Mateo County Grand Jury Friday accused the County Board of Education of ignoring taxpayers in "all of the implications" of a costly relocation of the Outdoor Education program site.

Dr. J. Russell Kent, superintendent of county schools, was in Sacramento and unavailable for comment. His top aides deferred comments until Kent returns.

The issue centers around the Education Board's intention to finance acquisition of a 173-acre site near La Honda for relocation of an outdoor education program for use by as many as 10,000 pupils each year.

The Grand Jury's statement from foreman Charles A. Black comments on the projected cost, which in the past has been refuted by Kent.

"The cost of the proposed facility which will duplicate facilities already available is estimated to be approximately $4.1 million for acquisition of the site (near Memorial Park), construction and furnishing," the jury report contend.

It further stated that anticipated inflation could push the price even higher.

Kent previously challenged the $4.1-million price before the County Board of Supervisors, saying a basic facility development would cost perhaps more than $1 million and less than $2 million.

He also, in the past, has disputed claims that the program would duplicate others. (The program is an intensive study of science, conservation and biology during the school year).

Coast Sign Ordinance

Delayed

Pacific's two-year effort to bring signs under control received another delay June 3 when the Planning Commission continued its hearing on the new sign ordinance to June 17.

The ordinance would regulate material, construction, location, electrification and maintenance of signs in Pacifica, and set up a procedure for removing all undesirable signs in the city within three years.

It would establish a five-member Sign Review Board to encourage good sign design.

A protest was received from John R. Niven Jr., protesting restrictions on temporary window signs.

City Manager Dave Thompson has proposed banning real estate directional signs and arrows; posters, announcements or political signs posted on fences, poles, trees or any object in a public street; sidewalk signs; signs or billboards that are on property other than the business it is advertising, and all signs in residential districts, except for a few small exceptions.

Only one matter was actually acted upon Monday night. The Planning Commission approved a permit for site development to Marguerite Washington, to permit a retail plant and gift shop at 720 Palmetto Ave.

Also continued were:

- An application to rezone a 7½-acre site from the north side of Fassler Avenue, across from Crespi Elementary School, from R-dG, garden apartment, to P-D, planned development. Willis & Associates, asked for a continuance to Sept. 3 to clear up some unforeseen complications between past and present land owners. The firm wishes to build 136 two-bedroom verticle condominium units in four buildings.

- An application by George LeBus to rezone a 72,800-square foot parcel to a different kind of single family residential use was continued to the June 17 meeting. LeBus wishes to be permitted to divide three lots on Talbot Avenue — at the foot of Montara Mountain — to five lots, three fronting Loma Vista Terrace and two fronting Talbot Avenue. The present zoning imposes a minimum of 20,000 square feet per lot, because of the steepness of the ground.

Mothers Club

To Install

New Officers

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mother's Club will hold their installation of officers June 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church.

The new officers to be installed are Mrs. Tom Baldwin, president, Mrs. Harry Lyman, vice-president, Mrs. Robert Simmons, recording secretary, Mrs. John Monahan, treasurer, Mrs. Walter Jeter, financial secretary, Mrs. John Klatt, auditor, Mrs. Al Morales, parliamentarian. Members of the board are Nancy Buckley, Martha Murphy and Doreen Brown.

The public is invited to attend the installation and welcome the new officers. A short meeting will follow in the school hall. Refreshments will be served.

Hospital Benefit

Fashion Show

In S. Francisco

The Presbyterian Hospital Auxiliary of the Pacific Medical Center announces their Fourth Annual Fall Fashion Show, August 19, which will feature the 1974 Collection of Oscar de la Renta.

De la Renta will speak at the luncheon show which is being arranged by Saks Fifth Avenue, to be held in the Grand Ballroom of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. Mrs. Selmar Monro is chairwoman.

For details call the Auxiliary Office, 563-4321, ext. 2239. All proceeds will benefit the Presbyterian Hospital.

Whatever the cost, the Grand Jury isn't happy with the school board's public relations.

"One of the main points of criticism of the (Grand Jury education) committee is that the county Board of Education has not fully nor adequately informed the taxpayers of all of the implications and the total costs involved in re-locating the outdoor education program to a new site," the report said.

At the same time, the Grand Jury said it expects to soon "commend" the school board for the "positive steps taken to correct some of the very poor conditions which existed at the education site and the efforts which have been made to improve them."

Some Reflections On June Primary

Reflections on the June election - 1974.

If. If only the voting public cared. If each voter attended one meeting, such as those conducted by the League of Women's Voters and read thoroughly the pre-election material of a good daily paper.

If these things were so, Proposition 9 would effectively cleanse the political process, and its objectives could be easily attained. If these things were so, the political mess wouldn't exist, and Proposition 9 wouldn't have been thought necessary.

The election reform initiative of 1974 is now law, and its successful operation has become important to all of us. By placing severely low limitations on campaign expenditures, Proposition 9 will drastically reduce the power of candidates to communicate. The only way to make up this reduction will be for California's citizens to give more attention to politics and government, or Proposition 9 could do more harm than good.

This column has a cynical view of the commitment of American voters to the political process and for this reason opposed passage of Proposition 9. Nothing could be more rewarding, even to cynics, than for our new campaign law to prove highly successful. For this to happen, a frontal attack must now be made on the fountain head of bad government and corruption, voter apathy.

Flournoy-Brown. It is not surprising that Flournoy presently lags by some eight percentage points. Brown has sought and captured wide publicity, and has just come through a hotly-contested primary.

The Republican primary of this year was, in many ways, a non-election. But now Flournoy is established as a top of ticket nominee. Visibility will be no problem for him in coming months, and his manner, knowledge, and attitudes will attract votes as he becomes better known.

In the head to head race to the wire, it appears Flournoy has all it takes to be a winner. California will like him more and more as it gets to know him better.

This column has long urged that regional boards and commissions such as BART be elected directly by the people. It was heartening to see such a strong vote favor the election of BART directors. Now watch BART get going - at last.

Turn out of California voters was dismal. The media have correctly (this time) put a good part of the blame on Watergate. The greatest fault, of course, rests with the laziness and sloth of voters. Watergate operated more as an excuse than as a motivating force.

Republicans stayed away from the polls in droves. It seems that this is a poor time for Republicans to quit. Will history record that Republican principles and election efforts dried up because of the misguided and wrongful actions of a few?

San Francisco doesn't sell in the south. Mayor Alioto and Supervisor Mendelsohn are but two more city-based politicians added to the list of those whose aspirations have been blocked by the Tehachapi.

Down ticket. Lieutenant governor, attorney general, controller, treasurer and secretary of state all run in state-wide elections. This year less was known about these candidates than ever before. In 1978 candidates for these offices will be restricted to three cents per member of the voting population in the primary election, and again in the fall general election. How, how, will they become known? Only if the public changes its ways will the election of these officers make any sense at all.

Ralph Nader says he knows the way to escape apathy. Make voting compulsory. The problem, of course, is that Nader has yet to propose an effective way of increasing involvement and awareness.

Flournoy and Brown have agreed to limit this year's expenditures to the level required by Proposition 9 when it becomes effective. For these candidates, this is a wise decision, for head of ticket opponents in a general election don't have visibility and identity problems.

No Surprise County Incumbents Ousted

By DUANE SANDUL

Surprised by Tuesday's dumping of two veteran San Mateo County supervisors by two unknowns?

Perhaps one shouldn't be. Robert B. St. Clair and Gerald F. "Ged" Day, the incumbents, clearly were rejected by county voters in favor of two young educators, John M. Ward and Edward J. Bacciocco.

Analysis

The element of surprise should have been removed in light of municipal elections staged in San Mateo County last March, when nine incumbents were turned out of office. Included among them were such "names" as Burlingame's Dave Martin, South San Francisco's Patrick Ahern and William Borba, Daly City's "Bud" Lycett and Millbrae's Harold Purpus.

Even in a city in which there were no incumbents, San Carlos, voters rejected the familiar "names" of former county manager E. Robert Stallings and planning commission chairwoman Lore Radisch for two so-called political rookies.

So it should have been made clear early this spring that the usual sacred position of incumbency was in great danger in the political contests in San Mateo County.

St. Clair, bitter about his defeat, believes the national scene played a role. "There was no way I felt that the Nixon-Watergate matter would reflect on the local scene, but it is obvious that it has. An anti-incumbency feeling is sweeping the nation."

Perhaps so. But there were indications of the so-called "anti-incumbency feeling" in some county cities in 1972, before the Watergate mess.

And it was, in this county, before Watergate that a new breed of politicians surfaced. Many candidates over many years have prided themselves for shaking hands at the train depots. But today's new breed is going beyond that, knocking on your door, asking what you believe the problems are and the solutions towards them.

The campaign term of "more responsiveness" is nearly as old as politics, but the recent trend, particularly in this county, has been to dramatize the term by personal campaigning.

Perhaps another element which has resulted in the turn towards incumbent ousters in San Mateo County and its cities is more depth of citizen interest in their local governments. Much of the interest, it is believed, originated with the environmental movement of the 1970s.

Then, after the normally passive voter became involved or concerned in his "environment" when new development projects were proposed, he turned eyes towards other municipal issues. Time and time again in recent years voters in San Mateo County have, through the polls, proven that although they might not attend meetings or write their elected official, they're concerned with what happens around them as deemed by the elected official.

And so thus perhaps the Watergate and anti-incumbent feeling certainly does exist in San Mateo County. But it is a Johnny-come-lately attitude which only combined with the attitudes towards incumbents prior to the 1974 cries of political reform.

During this period voters have been asking not "what have you done?" but instead, "What haven't you done, and why?"

As a result, the traditional incumbent's platform stand of "running on my record" has not attracted the attention it once did.

And the 1974 political year in San Mateo County has proven that.

New Supervisors Talk of Victory

It was three weeks before the election. San Mateo County Supervisor Gerald F. "Ged" Day had just issued a press release.

Hours later, his challenger, Edward J. Bacciocco appeared in the press room at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City, home for representatives of five newspapers and one radio station.

He wanted to rebut. He hurriedly typed out a five paragraph statement, slugged it a press release, and asked a reporter if he could submit it.

"We'll need four more," Bacciocco was told. He was given carbon paper. He proceeded to bang out the press release again. When he finished the results were clear - oops, the carbon was put in backwards.

Oh well. Bacciocco was his own PR man, with assistance from his attractive wife.

That independence and decision to stay away from the professional PR man is one of the reasons 38-year-old Bacciocco says he unseated Day last Tuesday.

Bacciocco and 33-year-old John M. Ward, ouster of veteran Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, Friday detailed why they believe they won. "It's important to put out how I won the election," Ward, a high school government teacher, said.

He said he had a grass-roots campaign which emphasized word-of-mouth at the neighborhood level. Also, some 10,000 "dear friends" cards were sent out and lots of coffee was consumed at homes.

"I'm no one's candidate. I built the organization myself," Ward commented.

The supervisor-elect said he felt there was an "anti-St. Clair" vote. "A lot of people who did not know me voted against St. Clair," Ward said.

He won 16 of the county's 25 cities or unincorporated "districts." Bacciocco outscored Day in 18 of the 26.

Ward said his only misgiving is that a controversial election-eve newspaper advertisement, depicting headlines about various actions of St. Clair, "provided my opponent with an excuse for why he lost."

But Ward says, unlike St. Clair, that the ad had a "negligible effect" on the election outcome because it appeared "too late in the campaign. If the election had been last Sunday, the results would have been the same."

Both Bacciocco and Ward prided themselves for "taking a stand on every major issue in the campaign."

Ward chided St. Clair for refusing to debate him "on the ground I didn't know enough about the county and its problems. At candidate's nights I pointed out I was a strong challenger."

"Three months ago no one knew me," Bacciocco noted. He attributed his success to working hard by walking neighborhoods, shopping centers and professional centers.

School Band Readies for Hawaii Trip

The Serramonte High Concert Band has reached its goal and will be leaving for the Hawaiian Festival of Music June 19.

The band will present its Aloha Concert on June 17 at 8 p.m. in the Gymnasium of Serramonte High School.

Ms. Jan Gaynor and the Band are most grateful for the community support which is making their trip possible and extend an invitation to the Daly City community to attend the concert and the reception following.

The gasoline shortage posed a serious problem for Yolande Hilpisch, College of San Mateo nurse — and it had nothing to do with the long lines or determining whether it was an odd or even day.

Mrs. Hilpisch was alarmed that some students were siphoning gas from friends' cars.

She immediately got out a brochure called, "Starting Gasoline Siphon by Mouth Can Kill You," warning bluntly of the dangers of swallowing or inhaling gasoline to the heart, the internal organs and the nervous system.

One of the important functions of her job, said Mrs. Hilpisch, is getting out information in an informal way to the school's 7,000 students and the 700 CSM employees on campus.

Outside her office is a card table bulging with piles of booklets about every conceivable emergency situation, from venereal disease to animal bites. The piles have to be replenished frequently by Esther Lewis, secretary to Mrs. Hilpisch.

While many students like to spend time thumbing through the booklets and make themselves perfectly "at home" outside the office, there are quite a few who are timid about coming in to see the school nurse even when they have a health problem.

"I guess I'm an authority figure to these students," said Mrs. Hilpisch. "Maybe one of the reasons is the fact that our office is on the second floor of the administration building. Or, perhaps, it's because they have to see Mrs. Lewis first before coming in to see me."

But even a casual glance at the report of health services for the semester which began in September, 1973 and ended last January makes it abundantly clear that a great many students are not at all timid about coming in or calling in quite frequently.

YOLANDE HILPISCH

For the five-month period, which ended on Jan. 31, 1974, a total of 1003 students visited Room 226 and another 516 called in for advice or help of one kind or another.

Summing up her job, Mrs. Hilpisch said, "I think I try to meet about three general things. The first is to try to meet student's needs directly by evaluation, counseling, referral and first aid."

"Then I try to meet students' needs indirectly by giving information which will be useful to them for staying well now and in later life. A health awareness."

"And, third, I try each year to get some idea of the broad picture of illness, chronic and acute, and accidents which our students experience. This is what a lot of figures in my semester and yearly reports are about."

Mrs. Hilpisch pointed out that it's not just medical problems which her office handles. "We see many students with psychological problems and, occasionally, we get students who take medication and are suffering from its side effects."

Students with psychological problems are referred either to the CSM psychologists or to community agencies off campus.

"We're very fortunate to be so close to Chope Community hospital and Mills," she said.

Mrs. Hilpisch feels that some of the most pressing needs are a physician on campus with whom she could consult and another location for her office.

"We should be in the stream of traffic. Perhaps near the student lounge. And we should be on the ground floor, accessible to automobiles and to students in wheelchairs and on crutches."

CSM's nurse since 1968, Mrs. Hilpisch received her bachelor of arts degree in psychology at Stanford and her registered nurse's license after graduation from the Stanford School of Nursing. She worked as a medical social worker at the Stanford Clinic for three years.

After her children were in school, she decided to get her Health and Development teaching credential. She received her master's degree in public health nursing in 1968.

She was formerly the school nurse at Carlmont High School in Belmont, and Aragon High School in San Mateo.

Samuel Chandler What's New

"The World is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers—
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!
The sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune."

Wordsworth

From the What's New Department comes a stream of books to turn us from our cares and woes into avenues that help us discover arts and skills known to the men and women who conquered the American wilderness and fashioned a democratic government to insure their individualism.

"American Axes" by Henry J. Kauffman is such a book. In a world that has developed computers that store knowledge and predict the future, the axe has been "man's chief tool since prehistoric times" and may yet remain in the vanguard of instruments that preserve mankind.

The axe, although a weapon and a tool of torture in the middle ages, led man from slavery to self-reliance; from villainage to dreams of equality. Nevertheless, the evolution of the axe was slow until the necessity of cleaning land for farms and homes in the vast North American wilderness sparked the, so called, American technological revolution.

A far cry from the pole axes and beheading axes of Europe, American axes have always been tools with their blades and handles shaped to advance civilization. Among the axes that have developed are the wood or felling axe for cutting down trees and chopping them into lengths, the broad or hewing axe with a long cutting edge that is ground like a chisel, the bull or ox axe designed for killing animals in a slaughterhouse, the double-bitted axe used by lumberjacks, the mortising axe that is designed to cut square-cornered cavities in timbers.

"American Axes" is profusely illustrated to make a directory for axe collectors and a useful book for woodsmen and a fun-book for an evening of reading.

From a book about axes we move to one about homemade houses. "Handmade Houses" by Art Boericke and Barry Shapiro is for the man who wants to "get it all together — time, energy, land and materials." It literally shows him how "wood-butchers" have built a house out in the country "sixty miles up a dirt road." Its major defect lies in its lack of directions to woodbutchers who may be inspired by what they see and read in the book.

Every page in "Handmade Houses" has a photograph from Barry Shapiro's collection. So here you find the house built of logs by a retired engineer and the house built of materials salvaged from a shipyard, an army barracks, a high school gym and a dentist's office. One page pictures "a woodsy little place put together by local craftsmen." Another shows a house made of adobes and tiles and still is an illustration of a rustic A-frame that Art Boericke calls "by far the handsomest A-frame I've ever seen."

"Knit, Purl, and Design" is a book for the woodbutchers wife. It was written by Annette Feldman to tell "the little woman" why she should knit. It explains how she can find "many hours of pleasure, contentment and relaxation" in knitting while her mate hefts his axe.

While "Knit, Purl, and Design" is a how-to-do-it book, it's a history of the art as well. It is a reference book; it is a dictionary; it's excellent reading about a craft that is in art that is in turn a satisfying pastime for a woman in a world full of troubles.

Free Tickets For Concerts

Three choral theatrical pieces to be presented June 16 at 3 p.m. in the War Memorial Opera House have been announced by the San Francisco Art Commission.

The concert will include the world premiere of San Francisco's Kirke Mechem's cantata, "A King's Contest," conducted by the composer, the American premiere of Maurice Ohana's "Lament for the Death of a Bullfighter" set to the magnificent words of Federico Garcia Lorca and Prokofiev's "Alexander Nevsky" cantata, conducted by Winifred Baker.

All tickets are free but seats are reserved and must be obtained in advance. To reserve your ticket for this premiere performance, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request for the number of seats to the San Francisco Art Commission, 165 Grove St., San Francisco, CA 94102.

Crime Course

A free course in "Crime Prevention for Seniors," elderly citizens, will be held June 17 and 19 from 10 to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. at the Pilgrim Plaza, 120 No. San Mateo Drive.

It is sponsored by the Burlingame and San Mateo Chapters of the American Association of retired persons. The San Mateo police department will participate. Officer Anthony L. Marko of the Administrative Services will be working with Stanley Kilcoyne, course instructor. The public is invited.

Families Urged to Turn in Pennies

One of the most patriotic acts Americans of all ages can perform today is emptying the family piggy bank, according to Charles K. Turner, President of First National Bank of Daly City.

Turner said the nation faces a penny shortage that costs taxpayers millions because people are withholding some 30 billion pennies from circulation.

Turner urged that families start gathering those pennies that are hiding in pickle jars, old socks and piggy banks and bring them into the bank so the nation can get Mr. Lincoln back among the people where he belongs.

and the College of San Mateo, and also has attended California State University at Chico.

Tom, as the prospective bridegroom is called, has three sisters. They are San-missionary work in Mexico. Becky is now attending Lynchburg, Va. Baptist Institute where her fiancé is also enrolled. Good morning, good cooks.

A good way to spend part of this morning is to bake a cake. This recipe makes a large and delicious cake, with cinnamon and ground nuts giving it extra pizzazz.

CINNAMON SWIRL CAKE

- 1 package yellow cake mix
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup oil
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup water
- 1 package instant French vanilla pudding
- 4 eggs
- 1 teaspoon butter flavoring
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup ground nuts
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon

Grease a 10-inch angel food cake pan. Pour the half cup ground nuts in pan and shake around until pan is coated, then shake out any nuts that are loose and mix with the fourth cup sugar and two teaspoons cinnamon. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, combine the cake mix, three-fourths cup each oil and water and the package pudding. Mix well. Add the four eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the one teaspoon each butter flavoring and vanilla. Beat well.

Pour into prepared pan, one-third batter at a time, sprinkling each layer with cinnamon-sugar and nut mixture. Ending with layer of butter. Bake 350-degree oven 45 minutes. Cool and remove from pan.

In case you feel like baking a cake from scratch, this oatmeal cake is a gem. Easy to mix and fix with a rich brown sugar frosting.

LAZY DAISY OATMEAL CAKE

- $\frac{1}{4}$ cups boiling water
- 1 cup rolled oats, uncooked
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter, softened
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon cinnamon
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon nutmeg

Pour the one and one-fourth cups boiling water over the one cup rolled oats; cover and let stand 20 minutes.

Beat the half cup butter and gradually add the one cup each brown and granulated sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Blend in one teaspoon vanilla and the two eggs. Add the oat mixture and mix well.

Sift together the one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg. Add to creamed mixture, blending well.

Pour batter into a well-greased and floured 9-inch square baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 50 to 55 minutes. Do not remove from pan. Combine frosting ingredients and spread evenly over hot cake. Broil until frosting becomes bubbly. KEEP AN EYE ON IT, IT GETS BUBBLY MIGHTY FAST.

BROILED FROSTING

- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter, melted
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 Tablespoons half and half
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped nutmeats
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup shredded or flaked coconut

Combine the fourth cup melted butter with the half cup brown sugar and three tablespoons half and half. Add the half cup nuts and three-fourths cup coconut. Spread on cake and place under broiler.

Expo Expo To Open at Cow Palace

Bay Area merchants will have a rare opportunity to advertise their wares and help a young couple with their wedding festivities when Expo Expo, scheduled for the Cow Palace August 14-18, hosts a wedding aboard an old-fashioned, full-sized ferris wheel.

The ferris wheel is part of Great Western Shows, a unique antique carnival that will be one of the attractions at Expo Expo.

Sean Hill, 27, a junior partner of Great Western, and Anne Schlett, 24, also of the GW staff, plan to be married aboard the traveling carnival's ferris wheel. For the Cow Palace engagement, the entire carnival will operate indoors for the first time ever.

Hill and his fiancée are inviting local business firms and merchants to participate in their wedding in exchange for contributions of accouterments for the gala event. The couple is offering advertising space on the spokes of their ferris wheel in exchange for merchandise such as wedding flowers, wedding refreshments, and bridal party attire.

Merchants interested in displaying a 20-foot banner on the ferris wheel, a custom dating back to the turn of the century, may contact Exhibit Associates, 198 Francisco St., San Francisco, or phone 415-433-5000.

Parade Winners List Announced

Harry Costa, chairman of the 34th San Bruno Optimist Club Posy Parade, held last week announced the trophy winners.

"Judging was very difficult this year because of the great variety of original ideas used by the entries. We do not use Optimist members as judges, therefore no favoritism can be shown," said Costa.

The winners of each division in the parade:

Division 1: Rickey and Gary Ingalsbe, Tim and Ruth McCunn, Lance and Sebrina Parsons.

Division 2: Don Wengler, Tracy Thylin, Janet Escobedo.

Division 3: Moni Orcholski.

Division 4: Susan and David Crowe, Sheila Walsh and Mavis Trimble, Lisa Shrut.

Division 5: Randy and Wendy Burrous, Chris Finn, Lynnette Orcholski.

Division 6: Candy Speller, Christi Escobedo, Kim Wade.

Division 7: Helen Danielson, Susan Francis, The Phillips Children.

Division 8: Starlettes, Dazzlers, Pat Bartholomew School of Dance.

Division 9: Richard Alves, Carolyn Kleiber, Arvin Sutherland.

Jim Faverman, president of The San Bruno Optimist Club, expressed his thanks and appreciation to all who helped with the parade.

"We give a special thanks to the members of the San Bruno Police Department, and auxiliary police, who so freely donated their time for traffic and crowd control," said Faverman.

Summer jobs for students may be in short supply this year but there are at least two rewarding volunteer programs underway that are seeking willing helpers who are 15 years of age or over.

Once again Mary's Help Hospital is using an enlarged corps of volunteers during the vacation period. The students lend a youthful look to the wards, bring their own special touch to the wards they assist in handling, and serve as temporary relief workers for Mary's Help Hospital Guild members who are off for vacations.

Mrs. Mary McCoy, the director of volunteer services at the hospital is the lady to contact if you are interested in being a volunteer. Call Mrs. McCoy at 992-4000.

FRIENDS OUTSIDE, the statewide volunteer organization which works with the families of persons who are in prison is beginning its fifth year with an ambitious four day per week program for children ages four years through 11 years.

The summer program will begin this Sunday and continue until August 30. On Monday mornings juniors in grades four through seven, will tour factories, ships or commercial sites between the hours of 9 a.m. and 1 a.m. To date several tours have been tentatively scheduled and included on that list are the Ghiradelli chocolate factory, an automobile assembly plant, the mint and a television station. During the afternoons children aged four to eight will be taken to the playground for team games and free play time.

Tuesdays and Wednesdays a camping program for the juniors will be presented. The youngsters and volunteers will leave Tuesday mornings for one of the federal or state parks for an overnight stay with return time approximately 5 p.m. on Wednesday. Overnights are planned at San Mateo Memorial Park, Mt. Diablo, Samuel P. Taylor and Kings Canyon National Park. Other parks will be added to this list as dates and volunteer availability become certain.

Volunteers working on Thursday mornings will be escorting the younger group to the zoo, the beach, the aquarium and other such nearby places. Similar activities are planned for the junior age group on Thursday afternoons.

Jim Grittnr, the Friends Outside Youth Director, indicated that he is eager to locate volunteers in all age groups, (15 years old to 51 plus) who will be willing to work even as short a period as one-half day per week. Volunteers with more time to contribute will be gratefully accepted as well but Grittnr wished to emphasize that no one should be hesitant to offer only two or three hours per week. Volunteers need not commit themselves to the entire program period but may work for as short a period as necessary or as long as the program is in operation.

In August Friends Outside sponsors a family camp in the Valley of the Moon and counselors, over 16 years of age and preferably college students, are needed for that session which will run from August 24 to 30.

If someone in your family is interested in hearing more, or if you belong to an organization which is seeking some relevant summer activity, call Grittnr at 661-6900 for information or to arrange to have a speaker come to your club and tell the Friends Outside story.

A WORD OF RECOGNITION is due Angie Sereni. Angie is the very talented local artist who painted the "portrait" of a fuchsia which was auctioned at the Fuchsia Ball. The beautiful live fuchsias used to decorate the St. Francis Hotel's East-West Room were produced by Norman Grunke who managed to convince those plants that it was, in deed, time to blossom.

MEMBERS of the Balboa High School class of 1969 will hold a reunion Saturday evening at Bimbos in San Francisco. Jackie Coston, 334-1440, Ed Grinton, 589-5826 or Ingrid Mejia, 756-1792 are the people to call for more information.

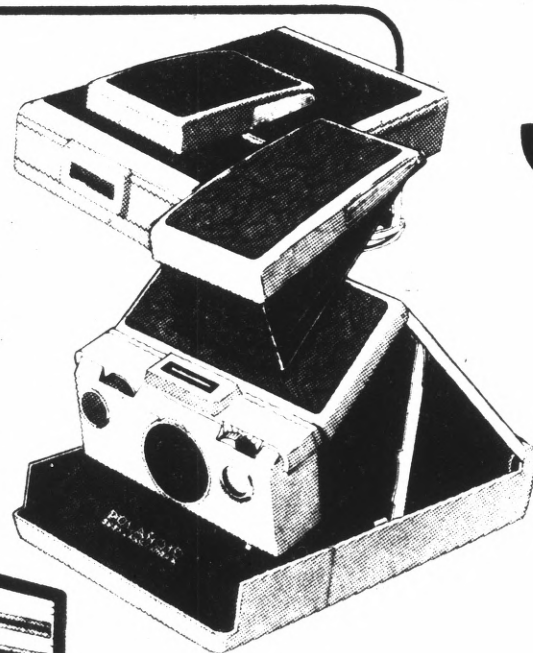

SPRING TIME is the season when everyone seems to be in the mood to think about gardening and brightening up "ye olde homestead."

Mrs. Carol Havens, part of the administrative staff at Mary's Help Hospital, helped put everyone in the mood to do a bit of indoor gardening with a delightful plant party in her very lovely new home in San Francisco.

More than two dozen friends and relatives were on hand to "ooh" and "aah" over the plants and enjoy Carol's hospitality.

Royal Inn Sues SSF Over Soil

A $14.5 million suit was filed last week against the city of South San Francisco and a major hotel organization by the owners of the Royal Inn of South San Francisco.

The owners alleged that the five story hotel, built in 1969 by Royal Inns of America Inc., a separate organization, is sinking into the bay muds and that the building is now "inherently dangerous."

South San Francisco is accused of having accepted a soils report for the hotel, which had been prepared in 1963 for a four-story office building.

The hotel is owned by a limited partnership, composed of 60 to 65 persons living throughout the state. The partnership is called "Royal Inn of San Francisco Airport."

The partnership contracted with Royal Inns of America Inc. to build the hotel for it. It now alleges Royal Inns of America Inc. did a poor job of construction.

Gerald Greenbach

acquired management rights, as well as eight percent interest in the hotel in June of 1973. He soon after-

SM Transit Operation 'Possible'

San Mateo County officials have discovered a little-known law which would allow the Board of Supervisors to initiate and operate a transit district without approval of the electorate.

The discovery came after the state legislature approved enabling legislation for a November election on formation of a transit district.

The new discovery would allow creation of the district with the consent of the county's cities, according to Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson.

Such an approach would make the Board of Supervisors the transit district board, and make transportation another county function which could be supported by property taxes.

In contrast, if the electorate formed the district under the state's enabling legislation, a transit board would consist of county, city and public members able to boost the sales-tax one-half cent, but without property tax powers.

County Engineer Sidney Cantwell confirmed today that the alternative approach is being discussed with the county's 19 cities. He said reports detailing the advantages and disadvantages are being circulated to city managers. The topic will be discussed at the June 28 Council of Mayors meeting.

Cantwell called the code which allows the Board of Supervisors to operate a transportation system "one which I don't think too many counties know about."

The engineer said he has no preference. "We need a transit system and the way we get one is immaterial to me," Cantwell said.

He explained that city approval could be by resolution.

Theoretically, a county-wide system could operate even if some cities opted not to give consent, Cantwell said.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, and army history and traditions.

ward became aware of abnormal cracks, malfunctioning of pipes and some sinkage around the swimming pool, the suit alleges. Among the list of allegations is a charge that the city permitted Royal Inn of America Inc. to cut corners on construction in exchange for a promise to bring substantial business and taxes to the city.

The Royal Inn of San Francisco Airport is asking for $3 million as the cost of replacing or repairing the hotel. $1 million for loss of business during reconstruction, $500,000 for Royal Inn Inc.'s income resulting from its alleged faulty construction, and $10 million for punitive damages.

As of today, the hotel is doing its usual business. It has 132 rooms, and a 24-hour coffee shop.

Sign Law Delay Sought in DC

Daly City Redevelopment Project Area Committee Chairman Frank Spadarella has asked the city council to table the proposed sign ordinance indefinitely.

Spadarella said in a letter to the council May 29 that the Project Area Committee membership wants to study all possible ramifications resulting from passage of such an ordinance.

Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard are both in the redevelopment project area and it is Spadarella's contention that renewal of the area under redevelopment, if it comes, will eliminate all illegal and unsightly signs along the business streets.

Meanwhile, the citizens group wants to take a "wait and see" stand on the matter, pending full studies on redevelopment from his committee.

The sign ordinance will lay down tough new restrictions on outdoor advertising — including billboards, projecting store signs, and those signs visible from landscaped freeways.

Nurses To Meet

San Mateo County nurses will play an important role in the Wednesday session of the American Nurses Association convention in San Francisco.

an organization dedicated to "respect for all human life, from conception to death."

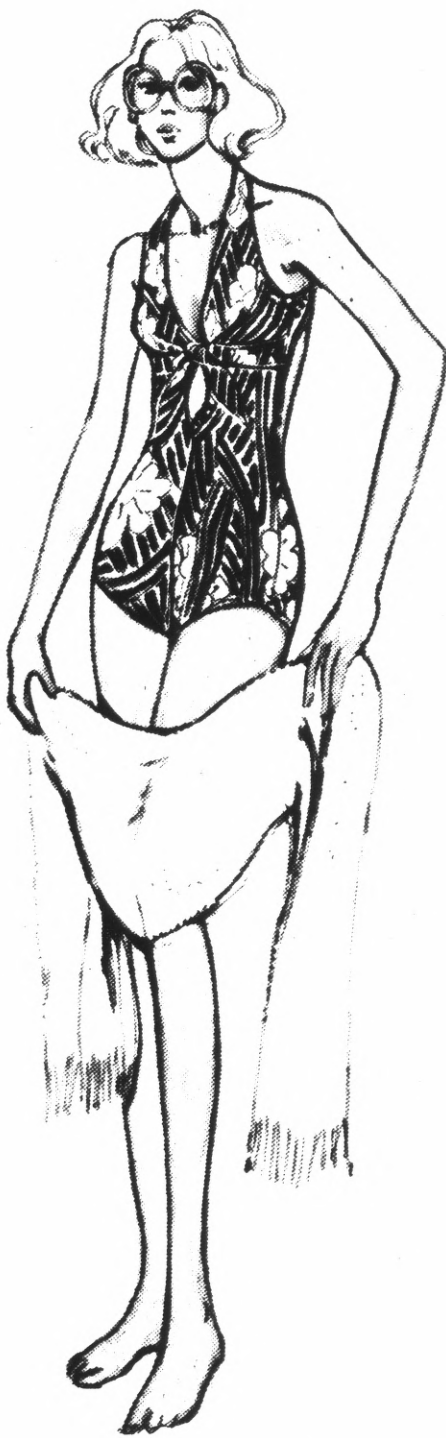

Assisting her will be two San Mateo nurses, Lucy Bartson and Nancy Holland.

Actress Ann Blyth, who has been active with the California Pro Life Council, will be the featured speaker at the workshop.

The workshop is scheduled for 1 to 4 p.m. in Room 103 of the Civic Center in San Francisco.

Students to Attend Auto Mechanics Contest

A trip to Dallas, Texas and a chance to win college scholarships is on the schedule next week for Thomas L. Richard, 17, of 1361 Encina Dr., Millbrae, and Wesley R. Jones, 17, 1337 Vista Grande, Millbrae, students at Mills, and their instructor, Gary L. Tootman, of 2436 Trenton Dr., San Bruno.

They will travel to the National Finals of the Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest, which will be held at Texas Stadium June 18. The students will be among 100 teams representing all 50 states who won the all-expense trips in a regional elimination contest this spring.

Their goal will be a national championship and a share in more than $90,000 worth of college scholarships and other prizes for the contestants and their schools.

A total of $37,000 in scholarships tops the prize list. The first place team in each of two classes, high school and post-high school, wins $5,000 in scholarships.

The finalists are America's most talented auto mechanics students. They have emerged from among some 165,000 students who tried out for their schools' Trouble Shooting teams. They compete in two-man teams. Each team takes a written examination, which contributes to its final score, and is then assigned to a new 1974 Plymouth automobile in which several identical malfunctions have been concealed in advance by expert technicians. Working against the clock and each other, under the eyes of a team of judges, contestants seek out and correct the hidden problems.

After being properly weighed, examination scores are combined with the finishing times in the mech

Making Solomon-Like Decisions

By BOB PETERSON

The two men had just presented their case, awaiting the judge's Solomon-like decision.

One had contracted with the other to have diamonds set into a ring. The diamond setter thought he'd done what was requested, and told the judge he also would be happy to redo the work if that were desired.

The judge, who had just heard the other man say this was his second time around in dealing with the jeweler, asked what was his pleasure? — another attempt at resetting the diamonds, or money he had deposited for the job.

"I want the money," said the man.

"Fine for the plaintiff," said Judge Charles Becker. Almost as quickly, he called two more names listed on the South San Francisco Municipal Court Small Claims calendar.

Small claims courts are an integral part of this country's judicial system, providing a means for collecting small debts a person feels are due him.

THE ONLY TYPE of case that can be filed in a small claims court is a case in which the plaintiff is asking the defendant for monetary relief.

And a limit of $500, plus court costs, is put on any claim.

It's a people's court. No lawyers are allowed. The judge, in effect, acts as attorney for both parties in a claim. He has to get all the facts in a hurry, since the small claim court's purpose is to provide speedy, inexpensive court decisions.

All the cases are decided by the judge — alone — and strictly on the basis of the information given by the plaintiff and the defendant.

The judge must quickly decide the facts, determine what laws apply and then rule on who wins the case under those facts and applicable laws.

Some excellent examples of how an individual can sue another individual, or a business (big or small), and in the process satisfy personal aggravations, abound in San Mateo County's small claims courts. Each is unique.

This day in Judge Becker's court a young lady was suing a young man for the cost of a coat she said was lost at his house while she was attending his party.

"IT WAS AN open party," qualified the young man to Judge Becker, and apparently offered as a defense.

"An open party?" questioned the judge. "Does that mean anyone can come in? A BYOB (Bring Your Own Bottle)?"

As the young man nodded affirmatively, Judge Becker sat back and murmured, "Hmmm."

But the judge told the young man he would have to assume responsibility for the coat, since the party was at his house.

In all instances, the judge indicated he would prefer the two disagreeing parties work out solutions to their problems themselves. Sometimes they did.

Take this case, in which a renter was being sued by his landlord for damages to a home. The two agreed damage had been done, but disagreed as to how much.

"You two go out in the hall and talk it out," said Judge Becker. "When you've decided how much damage there is, I'll make a decision."

Several cases later, the two returned, telling the judge they had not only arrived at a figure, but that payment of damages would be made within 30 days. Case concluded.

THEN THERE are times, even with physical evidence, that the judge is not able to render an immediate decision. In such cases, the judge takes the matter under submission and notifies the two parties of his decision at a later date through the mail.

This happened in Judge Becker's court when a woman was suing a dry cleaning operator because she said her ski jacket came back a larger size than when she brought it in to be cleaned.

The man doing the cleaning said no way can a garment of that material be enlarged. The woman responded that "all the stuffing" had been flattened.

Judge Becker took the coat as evidence, to be examined by an expert.

OTHER CASES ranged from a missing motorcycle, to one instance where a man being sued showed up, but the party suing him didn't.

Rather than immediately finding for the defendant in that case, Judge Becker said he'd better wait a couple of days, because "in cases like this they (people who don't show) usually come in a day late and claim they broke an ankle or something."

The man who did make it asked what could be done about the salary he had lost that day.

"The law doesn't provide for that," responded the judge, shrugging his shoulders and smiling a sympathetic smile.

A chase by truck and horseback seemingly out of the Old West resulted in the apprehension of an attempted rape suspect on San Bruno Mountain Saturday afternoon, police report.

Billy Lawrence Bunn, 27, of San Francisco, a computer programmer for a bank, was booked at county jail on a reported charge of assault with a knife and attempted rape. According to Deputy Sheriff Carl Caudill, the suspect had been hanging around the Colma Barns Horse Stables. About 1:30 p.m., when a 15-year-old South San Francisco girl was riding her horse out of the stable area, Bunn allegedly pulled her off the horse, throwing her to the ground and attempted to remove her clothing, Caudill continued.

The girl screamed to a 12-year-old girl companion who ran to seek help. At this point, the alleged attacker fled toward the nearby John Kennedy School.

A group of other girl riders followed the fleeing man at a distance on horseback.

Edward J. Phelan, 30, of San Anselmo, who had been working in a nearby welding shop, followed the suspect in his pickup truck. When he saw the man fleeing up the side of San Bruno Mountain above Guadalupe Canyon Parkway, Phelan commanded one of the horses and followed the suspect up the mountain.

When he caught up with Bunn, the San Anselmo man reportedly struck the suspect and held him in custody until the arrival of authorities.

Caudill commended Phelan for his action, stating it is likely the suspect would have got away if it hadn't been for his action.

Three Murder Trials Set County Record

Three murder cases are on trial this week in San Mateo County.

District Atty. Keith C. Sorenson said it's the first time in county history three murder trials have been conducted simultaneously.

The most notable got underway before Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo. It's the John Warren Kreuter trial, the first in this county under the state's new mandatory death penalty act.

Kreuter is accused of kidnapping, raping and murdering Palo Alto housewife Liana Hughes last February. He has pleaded innocent.

His attorney, David Pomeroy, failed in his bid before Judge Gerald E. Ragan to win a week's continuance in the case. Pomeroy had said the death of his father recently kept him in Los Angeles until last Thursday.

Prosecutor John T.

O'Leary opposed the motion, explaining that he has about 35 witnesses ready this week. The attorneys are expected to be in chambers with Judge Piombo for most of today, and jury selection begins tomorrow.

Pomeroy's law partner, James P. Fox, was two courtrooms away today defending Paul Vincent Williams, 32, charged with the slaying of a 21-year-old woman, Cathi Westmoreland, last February in Redwood City. Robert Bishop, chief of the prosecutors, is trying the case against Fox before a jury in the court of Judge William Lanam.

Meanwhile, the Alfred Newton murder trial resumed Monday before Superior Court Judge Robert E. Carey. Newton, 30, is one of three men accused in the February fatal stabbing of Joseph Moran in Redwood City. The trial of two codefendants is scheduled to begin next Monday.

Pacific Home Hit By Fire

A fire, officials said, could be seen for half a dozen miles, did an estimated $40,000 in damage to a Pacifica Pedro Point home Sunday night.

According to the officials, the blaze at 279 Sterling Ave. was reported at about 10 p.m., at which time the entire top half of the two-tiered structure was burning. Officials estimated $30,000 damage to the building and a $10,000 loss to contents.

Although exact cause of the blaze has not been determined, firemen believe it may have been the result of something cooking in a broiler.

According to officials, Jeff Hope, the teenage son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Hope, had been cooking earlier and went downstairs to watch television.

Firemen said the parents had left the home about 8:45 p.m. and returned at 10 p.m. to find the house in flames. Jeff was still watching television, according to fire officials. No one was hurt.

Post Tennis Clinic

Orientation is First

(Editor's Note: The Post is commencing a summer clinic series on beginning tennis, as taught by San Mateo tennis pro John Reed. In it, the series will attempt to follow Post's sports writer Garry Niver's awkward efforts at learning beginning tennis.)

By GARRY NIVER and JOHN REED
Unlike most other sports, tennis is one in which you cannot cover your ineptness. If you are going to be bad, there is no hiding the fact. The quarterback's pass can't be too long nor can the umpire make a bad call. It's just you with your racquet standing naked in center court.

For a little introduction, John Reed is a graduate of San Mateo High School and a certified member of the United States Professional Tennis Association.

Reed's first lesson is mainly spent on orienting a beginner on the game of tennis. "This is necessary," comments Reed, "as the court is a battle arena once the first ball is served."

In tennis, unlike some other sports, an individual can force the outcome of a match by putting pressure on his opponent. The way to win in tennis," continues Reed, "is to capitalize on your opponent's mistakes."

"First, you must think of the tennis court as a triangle, with the centerline the home base," he explains. "By returning to the centerline, or home base, you are rarely out of position for an opponent's return shot."

"From this point you can move either to your right or left, in addition to moving up on the ball."

After emphasizing the importance of the centerline, Reed explains the disadvantages of various locations on the court, such as the forecourt or "No Man's Land."

"The great thing about tennis is that you don't have to be a good athlete in order to be a good tennis player," Reed notes. "Position, concentration and practice makes good tennis players."

Tennis Pro John Reed

"The important thing is to know the court before you start playing. Know the triangle, the home base at its apex, no man's land and the service square."

And now you are ready to step out on the court.

The score after the first lesson: Reed 6, Niver 0.

(Next week: the very basic forehand stroke.)

Female Athletes

(Ed. Note: This week's column is written by guest columnist Mary Van Zant, an award-winning feature editor for the Skyline College Press.)

More and more, women are discovering how challenging, stimulating, and rewarding athletics can be. For many it fulfills the need to exercise while providing them with an opportunity to have fun. Competition is an inherent drive that women are now being encouraged to develop, one that adds a new dimension to whatever sport they choose to participate in.

In high school, physical education is mandatory for four years, so quite a variety of sports is introduced to the adolescent female student. While guys grow up with that "athletic drive" which is constantly reinforced by their lunchtime baseball games and after school football scrimmages, the young ladies play hop scotch and jacks.

However, this must not be an indication of things to come, because in the high schools that have developed a Girls Athletic Association, the response has been overwhelming. Now instead of the girls standing in a cluster and referring to a passing guy as a jock (one who dreams, talks, and thinks sports) it's the guy's turn to bestow this compliment or criticism, as the case may be, on a passing girl.

This year for the first time at the California Interscholastic Federation Track and Field Championships in Bakersfield there was competition for girls. Berkeley High School produced the winning squad. This probably will not lead to women being recruited to join the professional ranks in such rough, glorious capacities as a football quarterback or baseball pitcher, but this incentive to compete against other women is significant.

NATIONAL TELEVISION has popularized the female athlete to the degree that Billie Jean King and Olga Korbut are almost household words. When Billie Jean and Bobby Riggs were contenders in the Battle of the Sexes the American viewing audience saw history being made as an egotistical, frumpy hack (that is the only one women's columnist's view) was soundly beaten by a charming, witty woman professional (again, that is only one woman columnist's view.)

Former Roller Derby star Joan Weston has proved herself to be as qualified as her male counterparts when it comes to jamming and blocking, as she has demonstrated quite effectively that she is willing to skate shoulder to shoulder with members of either sex. During a few exhibitions in San Francisco (there may have been more) Weston was put in to skate on the injury-ridden men's squad and she did a credible job.

Getting back to tennis, it's an activity gaining increasing popularity that attracts an equal number of male and female netters. But the objective of games which match the skills of these two against each other is to beat the other because he is a man or a woman, not because he or she is a tennis opponent. Not only is this unhealthy for both parties, but it is too often futile for the women.

TENNIS IS A GAME built around the serve, and no matter how liberated a woman is, it is a question of muscle power, not will to win that propels those aces over the net.

Skyline College has a large number of female students involved in this fast-paced game. Every semester the tennis classes are full and the courts are swarming with girls and guys improving their groundstrokes, learning doubles' strategy, or perfecting their serve. Since the classes are segregated into beginners and intermediate, the differences between a girl's ability and a guy's ability is not so obvious while the fundamentals are being learned.

Once it is established that you can hold your own on the court the male has a definite and pronounced advantage over the female. Women professionals and girls, like San Francisco's Louie sisters, are notable exceptions, but for the average female playing a male, rather than attempting to win she may aim to take one set or at least hold serve as much as possible. It is a simple biological fact that men are stronger, so all else being equal (net play, speed, strategy) the man will win on his strength alone.

In competition this can have a pronounced effect on the outcome. Since there is no women's tennis team at Skyline, girls who want to play for competition must try out for the men's team. Although it can be done, the chances are slim that a girl will succeed in securing a berth on the ladder.

This year three girls signed up for the team, Martha Moreno, Brinn Lyman, and Fran Bartholomew. None of the trio could successfully challenge the male players to qualify as one of the six who makes up the official playing team. In spite of this they did continue to practice with the team and Moreno did play on a third double's team if the other school brought along extra players.

REALIZING that their skills may be improved by practicing with the men's team but also realizing that there is little chance they will consistently play in matches, attempts are now being made to organize a women's team. A few weeks ago a meeting was held to see how many would be interested in joining such a team. Only three girls showed up, which is half a team anyway, but they were confident that friends and incoming freshmen would combine to provide enough willing players to warrant forming a team.

The women's team would not be in a league, but still would play other colleges that also have women's teams. Local community colleges which have teams are Foothill, Santa Rosa, Menlo, West Valley, DeAnza, and San Jose City College. Alameda may form a team by next year.

Skyline College's Athletic Director Walt Rilliet could not guarantee that even if there was enough interest that there would be a team, but he was optimistic. "Things aren't insurmountable, but some practical considerations have to be made," Rilliet remarked.

Tennis Tourney At Gellert Park

The Daly City Recreation Division, in conjunction with the Gellert Park grand opening, is sponsoring an "open division" tennis tournament June 29.

The tournament will be played on the courts at Gellert Park, and there will be two categories: men and women.

This tournament will be open to Daly City residents only on a first-come, first-served basis. The entrance fee will be $2.50 per player which will cover the cost of the trophies.

There are only eight spots available in each category so to be assured of a place in the tournament, promptness is important.

LC&R Reservations may be made by sending name, address, phone number and correct fee to the Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd., Daly City, CA 94014.

Carroll Wallace Back In Finocchio Revue

Carroll Wallace has returned to the Finocchio revue after a trip to London with his wife, Ruth Rogers, to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Carroll, once billed in the old Earl Carroll stage spectaculars in Hollywood as the "Most beautiful boy in the world," the master of ceremonies and has a lively song and patter routine. The management of Martinelli's Steak Pit, in Millbrae, has pulled off an entertainment coup! Walter Wonderly, famed Brazilian organist, is now in his second week of an indefinite engagement. Wonderly, who was raised in Sao Paulo, first shot to fame a few years ago with an LP called "Rain Forest." Since then, he has come up with numerous best-selling albums. Although Shakey's is known throughout the Bay Area for its pizza variety, busy executives in the downtown Burlingame area are really fond of the "Bunch of Lunch." You'll also find Golden Fried Chicken, Hot Hero Sandwiches, and many other pleasures on the menu. Among the unique dishes served at The Marmite, in Redwood City, is Crab Sea Shell Cassolette. And what a variety of fondues! From Swiss to an exceptional prawn creation

One of the Most Appreciated Menus

Far beyond the many Holiday awards that the Yamato restaurant has acquired and its Four-star Mobil Awards, lies an accomplishment in the preparation and service of fine Japanese food that is outstanding. One of the oldest and most respected restaurants in the United States, Yamato restaurant is attentive to details — which makes dining at this San Francisco restaurant a rewarding experience. Most entrees are prepared at the table by kimono-clad waitresses. Food is served on dishes shaped to the need. There are no two alike. . . . Singer-saxophonist Louis Jordan is in his second week in Harold's Club Silver Dollar Room. Louis adds his musical flair to blues, rhythm and contemporary songs, plus his jazz sounds of New Orleans. Appearing with Jordan, through June 23, is comedian-satirist Cork Proctor. . . . Debbie Reynolds is playing her final Las Vegas engagement of the year in the Desert Inn's Crystal Room. This engagement, which runs through June 24, will be followed by taking the show to the London Palladium at the end of July. . . . The multi-talented 5th Dimension is appearing twice nightly in the High Sierra Theater at Del Webb's Sahara Tahoe, along with comedian Irwin C. Watson.

VIBRANT PERFORMER — Handsome John Davidson will open a two-week engagement in the Headliner Room at Harrah's Reno Thursday, through June 26. Backing up Davidson will be the John Carleton Orchestra. Appearing through Wednesday night are Jerry Lewis and Mel Torme.

Tony Hall "On Deck" At The Fisherman

Tony Hall arrived at The Fisherman in Burlingame, and his welcoming party was there to greet him. The good-looking singer is always a big attraction at this seafood restaurant. Tony has an all-new show — he sings ballads and light rock — which appeals to all groups and ages. Dancing to the Tony Hall Show Tuesdays through Saturdays. . . . Power House is the musical enticement at Abbey Roads, in Burlingame, Tuesdays through Saturdays. Daily lunches are also featured. . . . Milestone presents the dance sounds at the unique "We've Gone Bananas" in Belmont. A $100 cash prize is awarded the best dancing couple every Thursday night. . . . Be sure to catch Laura Lee performing her musical artistry in the intimate lounge of the Royal Inn's Back Door Steak House, South San Francisco. Laura recently returned to the Bay Area following a lengthy stint in New Orleans. . . . The exceptional rock band of Blind Tiger is currently featured at The Shiloh, in downtown San Mateo. The dance sounds can be enjoyed Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Special "Happy Hours" prevail from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Palo Alto Shirt Tail Ideal For Any Occasion

The Shirt Tail is a spacious 300-seat restaurant that is part of the Adrian Stickney chain, specializing in quality beef steaks and seafood specialties. The waitresses are a special attraction here, for they are costumed in mini-bouffant skirts, organdy aprons and blouses with plunging necklines. Open daily for lunches, Monday through Saturday. Dinners and cocktails served seven days a week. Talented Dodd Baker entertains at the piano bar Tuesdays through Saturdays. . . . The dining room area of Enrico Romano's Italian restaurant, located in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is a crowded scene any day of the week. Reason enough is Enrico's mastery of pizza making and Italian dishes. Cocktails and your choice of wine may also be enjoyed. . . . Becky, assisted by several pretty young ladies, presents the luncheon fashion show in the Golden Rooster Lounge of the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, Monday and Friday afternoons. Fashions modeled are the latest in lingerie styles. Needless to say, the lounge is a popular mid-day haven for scores of businessmen.

Hawaiian Fruit Added To Greenhouse Menu

Murray Lehr now has fresh Hawaiian avocados, papayas and bananas-on-the-stalk flown in twice weekly from Hawaii on United Air Lines for his famous Lehr's Greenhouse restaurant. The fresh Hawaiian fruits will be added to the already abundant selection on Lehr's salad bar, acclaimed the biggest and best in San Francisco. . . . Much has been written about the fantastic Sunday Brunch featured every Sunday at the Holiday Inn, in South San Francisco. And Bright Lights wants to stress the fact that the same top quality prevails for luncheon and dinners. You couldn't ask for a more pleasant setting than the Royal Hall dining room for a quick or leisurely afternoon or evening meal. You'll also find live entertainment in the Lancer Lounge, located adjacent to the dining room, Tuesdays through Saturdays. . . . Jack MacRae and Richard Bertrand are part of the reason a visit to L'Auberge in Atherton is always a pleasure. They are the barmen who are experienced in all phases of mixing drinks. Select your brand from their vast selection (30 Scotches, 108 wines, and your favorite brandy, cognac and liqueurs) in their well stocked bar. Jack is day bartender, with Richard holding down the evening shift. Ask them to do their Grand Marier Frappe.

Nightly Menu Specials At Diamond Lil's

Toni De Sanders, manager of Diamond Lil's in San Mateo, features dinner specials on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings. "Senior Citizens Special" (on Sundays) is a half-pound ground sirloin steak, served with baked potato, jello, and coffee or tea for $1.99. And you can toss your own salad (eat as much as you like) at the Salad Bar, which is located in the center of the dining area. Also help yourself to the French bred and butter. . . . Rey Bustamente, currently featured at the organ on Friday and Saturday nights at Mr. Quinn's, has performed at such San Francisco niteries as the Little Bo-Peep, Tipsey's, the Latin Quarter, and Big Al's. His musical format of material includes old standards, a contemporary selection of songs, plus he handles requests and still remains improvisational. . . . The Down Under ranks as one of San Francisco's most romantic dining rooms, with four intimate, adjoining, candlelit dining rooms. . . . Billy Tavares and his band entertain with island rhythms from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. during the Hawaiian Luau each Sunday at Frank Martinelli's Tiki Garden. The Luau Buffet includes Steak Teriyaki, Mahi-Mahi, and fresh island fruit. . . . There's a big dance contest every Tuesday night at The Beach House, and Frank Martinelli is offering cash prizes to the winning couples.

3-STAR RESTAURANT — L'Auberge in Atherton is like the typical country inn where the well-traveled encounters while motoring through Burgundy, France. Louis Fruttschi (left) is the personable host, and partner-chef George Bollag (right) have blended talent to make this 10-year-old restaurant a favorite of the Atherton-Woodside smart set. Like a Michelin Three Star restaurant.

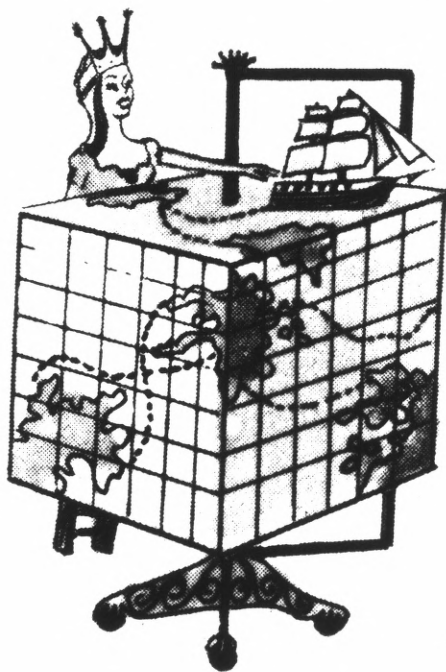

Palo Alto Holiday Inn Latest Garden Hotel

Clement Chen, A.I.A., is the architect-owner of the Holiday Inn, Palo Alto, which he has created in a charming California Mission-style. The luxury inn is located on seven acres of landscaped beauty where Stanford University meets Palo Alto. There is a water garden with bridges, waterfalls and brick courtyards enclosed by trellised walkways. The Greenery is a beautiful coffee shop, with hundreds of hanging plants and flowers and a complete wall of antique stained glass windows. Justine's is an elegant showcase for Continental cuisine. A lunch buffet sees the area's smartest ladies and businessmen relaxing, and at night it becomes a gastronomic haven for discriminating diners. There's a Sunday Champagne Brunch (children under six can dine free at the Brunch). Le Boozerie, the intimate cocktail lounge, reflects Early San Francisco. The Piazza Court, used for special events, has Spanish floor tiles, glass roof and Moorish arches. Banquet facilities for 10 to 500. Jim Noulis is manager. . . . Appetizers, soups, salads, omelettes, sandwiches, pasta and desserts — all are listed on the luncheon menu a la carte at Jovanello's restaurant, in San Francisco. There is always a Chef's Daily Special. The full luncheon menu includes soup or salad and coffee, along with your choice of entree.

Liberace, Las Vegas Hilton Production

Liberace, "Mr. Showmanship," and a strong supporting lineup consisting of the 32 bright-eyed Little Angels, 12-year old banjo sensation Scotty Plummer and the beautiful "Dancing Waters," dazzles audiences in the main showroom of the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel twice nightly. As is Liberace's custom, the famed pianist appears with all of his guest stars throughout the show, in addition to giving each a solo spot. . . . Don Rickles, king of the put-down artists, is headlining in the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe, through June 20. Rickles, well-known for the pallid praises and insults he hurls at those in his audience, appears in two shows nightly (8:15 p.m. and midnight). In the Stateline Cabaret. . . . Entertainment seekers will enjoy the performances of Rose & The Arrangement, on stage through June 23, who entertain with contemporary solos and four-way vocals, spiced with light comedy Cathy O'Shea & Solid Gold open in the theater-lounge on Wednesday.

Ronnie Lehr's Art Work Now On Display

Note to art collectors: A series of three gorgeous new oil paintings of ballerinas by renowned artist Ronnie Lehr of Hillsborough are now on display in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery. Each noon-day (Monday through Friday) Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant features a luncheon special (in addition to the regular menu), and the portions are enormous! Friday's special is Baked Fish and is served with a choice of clam chowder or minestrone soup or luncheon salad with French dressing, and coffee. Sunday's dinner special is Roast Chicken and Polenta. Fantastic! ... Joe Richie is back in good form. Formerly the lead guitarist with Tashombe, Joe formed his own band, Grand Mariner, a few months ago and opened in the Ivory Coast Lounge of the Holiday Inn, Belmont, for a month's stint. S.R.O. dance crowds are expected in the lounge, Tuesdays through Saturdays. Luncheons are served in three different sizes at the Ben Jonson restaurant in the Cannery. There's an individual price which continuously goes down when it is served for two, three, or four persons. Full of half flagons of wine.

FAST-PACED COMEDY — Tracy and Vader, one of the funniest teams in the business, return to the San Francisco Playboy Club through June 15. They offer "Laugh-In"-style barrage of skits and one-liners guaranteed to rout the inhibitions of any audience.

THANKS TO ALL — Robert Hanson (right), the newsboy who almost met death in Oakland at the hands of an attacker, received $500 in donations by the patrons of Ken's House of Pancakes, Millbrae, at a presentation at his home. The idea belonged to Charley Nafe (center), manager of Ken's. Kathy Lineham (left), night bartender, helped deliver the "Money Cakes" to Robert and his mom, Mrs. Donal Hanson, next to Robert. $92,000 has been collected for the lad's medical, recuperation and educational fund. Ken's extends thanks to all patrons for their generous contributions.

Coyote Point Museum Sets Leadership Class

The Coyote Point Museum for environmental education is offering another of its popular and practical leadership courses, beginning June 26 and continuing for seven sessions through July 31.

Local native animals and foothill communities will be the major areas of study.

Maryann Danielson, chief of the Interpretive Division, San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Department, and director of the Coyote Point Museum, will guide the foothill classes and trip. Carol Kemnitz, museum curator and naturalist, will conduct the animal sessions. Guest naturalists will supplement the program to be held at various locations during the five-week period.

The first class will meet at the Coyote Point Museum June 26, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Adults, and high school seniors, juniors and sophomores are eligible for this ecology training and may qualify themselves for the museum's volunteer docent corps. Docents, working under staff direction, provide group tours for others in the community, thus utilizing their training and increasing their knowledge.

Advance registration is necessary and personal application at the Coyote Point Museum in San Mateo is desirable. The no-fee classes given for potential docents will be limited in size.

Plans for July 4 Celebration Set

Pacifica will go all out on July 4 to celebrate a double event — birth of our country and birth of Pacifica's first city park.

The event will center, appropriately enough, at the new Frontierland Park, at 11 a.m. All residents are invited to spend the day there.

It is planned to make the event an annual one, to be followed in 1975 by a bigger picnic to be held in a bigger Frontierland Park, and in 1976 by celebration of America's Bicentennial Celebration.

Activities will be kicked off at 9 p.m. July 3 by a fireworks exhibit, on Pedro Beach, held by the American Legion.

Next morning, the Pacifica Kiwanis Club will hold a Pancake Breakfast, 7-11 a.m. at Oddstad School, adjacent to the park.

At 9 a.m., a five-mile cross-country "Pier to the Park" foot race will be inaugurated. Deadline for sign-ups will be July 2.

Presiding over the dedication ceremonies will be a host of notables, headed by Mayor Aubrey Lumley III.

Various food and drink booths will be operated during the day by Pacifica's clubs. The Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department will hold various events throughout the day, as well as entertainment.

Cooking Creatively With Natural Foods

A new class this session at the YWCA is cooking creatively with natural foods.

Starting June 19 at 7-9, students will learn to prepare foods naturally, using unprocessed, unrefined ingredients. Emphasis will be on the meaning of natural foods, where and how to buy them and the appropriate use and care of kitchen cutlery. Nancy Knox instructs the class.

An exciting program for boys and girls, three to five years old, begins June 19 at 1 p.m. Creative dramatics, taught by Juliet Ghafourpour, will explore the feelings and imagination of preschool children. Dramatics and movement will be accompanied by classical and modern music from the U.S., China, India, Arabia, Iran and Spain.

Bridge will be taught Wednesday evenings from 7:30-9:30 p.m. beginning June 19. Instruction and play for beginners and intermediate students will be by Nell Krawetz.

Other classes soon to begin include ballet, daytime trimmastics, sky sailing, judo, Polynesian dance, diet workshop and Y-Women's club, and swimming.

Sun Valley Dairy Robbed

Two men held up the Sun Valley Dairy, 1119 El Camino Real, South San Francisco, Thursday night, and escaped with approximately $225 plus an undetermined amount of food stamps, police disclosed this morning.

Two men entered the store as clerk Gilbert Carabantes, 17, of South San Francisco, was busy closing up business, shortly before 9 p.m. One of the men cut the telephone wire and showed a small handgun, according to police.

"This is a stickup," he said. "Put all your money in a paper bag."

Police say the holdup men may have been the same men who robbed Matsui Shell, in Westborough the day before. The two were described as Negro with Afro styled hair 24 to 25 years of age. One was described as six feet tall, 200 pounds wearing blue levis, and the other as five feet 10, with a small goatee wearing a blue jacket.

Community Band Tryouts

Peninsula Community Band will conduct summer quarter tryouts for experienced players of woodwind, brass and percussion instruments on the remaining Mondays of June.

The symphonic band is organizing its summer session under the direction of Bandmaster Nathan Chasin. Scheduled trials and band practices are Mondays beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Room 109 of Palo Alto High School, Embarcadero Road at El Camino Real.

Applications for all band instruments are being accepted now. Immediate positions are open for advanced clarinet, bassoon, string bass, percussion and French horn players.

Painting Class Slated in SSF

For persons wishing to express themselves through drawing and painting, an eight-week class for adults emphasizing acrylics, water colors, and other drawing media is being offered by the South San Francisco Recreation Department.

A drawing and painting class for children will also be offered. Classes begin the week of June 24, and pre-registration is necessary. For details call 873-8000, ext. 50.

In ceremonies held at Saint Lawrence the Martyr Catholic Church, Santa Clara, Knighthood was bestowed on the following members: Robert Galletta, Robert Harp, Rick Reyes, Ray Tschirgi Jr. and Paul Williford.

give outstanding results on the show tables as well.

With the announcement of these new AARS roses, there is no plausible reason to keep non-producing roses in the garden. While you are cutting the spent blooms from the plant's first flowering of the year is a good time to check on its productivity.

It costs just as much in time, plant food, water and spray material to grow a poor rose as it does a good rose. If they don't produce get rid of them and re-vitalize the soil so a better bloomer can keep you in roses to cut for your home and provide color for your garden.

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

"I'm not interested in making movies. That's like putting plumbing in the house. Distribution is the power of the industry, not the story or the actors. It's the plug-in to audience. Distributors emulate the dreams of what they think the dreams should be."

John C. Broderick, one of Hollywood's youngest producers, grew up on the Peninsula, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Broderick of Millbrae. The talents that led him into the film industry are business acumen and the common sense that transcend the glamor and fantasy of filmmaking for the realism of making profit on an investment. These seeds may have germinated at South San Francisco High School or San Francisco State University where Broderick studied radio and television with Jules Irving, now a New York director. The current exploitation film, "Dirty O'Neil: The Love Life of A Cop" playing in the Bay Area carries his name as producer but he started out as an actor. Before serving as assistant director on "Badlands," he'd been a foreign exchange student in Germany for two years and made a western film in London that won an award at the Edinburgh Film Festival. He left a job with the BBC to come back to San Francisco and appear in the original Mime Troupe. By the time he went into film production, he'd worked both sides of the camera and learned that "only half the cycle is making the film. The other half is if it makes money."

Local Filmmaker Turns Cold Shoulder to 'Art'

"I became so interested in the creation of what's on a screen, I didn't want anyone to tell me how or what to do. So I'm moving into distribution where I can learn the territories and control what films get out before the public. "The Sting" is a packaged movie, but the public is buying it. So there is sufficient bait in the market place that proves motion pictures can still make money. "They talk about the 18 through 35-year-olds as today's movie public at such theaters as Westwood and UCLA but they're like sheep. You can't trust their judgment because they don't know what they like. They like what they're told to like. And that costs money. "Every dollar put into a film needs four back to break even. I'd like to be a director but believe me, I'd know enough to get the bread and butter shots first and the art shots later. The only known formula is sex, action and comedy. The only thing that movies have done in the past 20 years is to introduce Yiddish humor. It's the basis of most of the best comedies. "Americans don't know what they want to see. There is an incredible double standard in America. Not even the pretense of Europe where the English make what they call "kitchen sink movies" or what we call pictures about contemporary life. "There is no time for magic in making films. You have to know who you're doing business with because you can't trust a man's art if you can't trust his life. There is a trusting logic inherent in business. It's called money. "Movies are not a way of life. From 8 to 10 p.m. at night, it's magic time. But Americans don't want to believe that. They think the dream is the life."

No one can challenge Broderick's clear-headed approach to making and marketing films. There is a certain cold logic in his outlook but with the industry in such a panic, his guess of what will sell is as good as anyone else's. "Dirty O'Neil" opens today at 14 theaters in the Bay Area.

Tax Decrease in Jeopardy

Additions to the 1974-75 San Mateo County budget suggested by County Manager M. D. Tarshes, if adopted, could wipe out last year's 12-cent tax decrease, it was learned Tuesday.

Last year's cut dropped the local property tax rate to $1.97 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The addition of $1,872,808 had been recommended, and the Board of Supervisors had not trimmed one cent from the proposed 1974-75 San Mateo County budget following the close of the first day of public hearings on the budget Monday.

Tarshes, who recommended a $139,667,608 budget to the Board of Supervisors last April 30, a decrease of $1.7 million from the current fiscal year, added the over $1.8 million in his recommendation Monday.

After hearing administrative officials' justifications on budget requests for public health, mental health, welfare, parks, planning, engineering and building construction and general services, the board gave tentative approval, although "red flagging" some items for future consideration before the budget is adopted, probably late in July.

Tarshes informed the board that of his recommended increase over the original budget proposal, only $731,450, would be actual net county costs, with the balance coming from various federal, state and other income sources.

However, his original budget recommendation contained a net county cost increase of $2.3 million, principally because of the county's requirement to contribute $2.2 million to a new income maintenance program for persons receiving federal assistance to the blind and disabled.

Biggest single hike recommended by Tarshes in his supplementary budget proposals is a figure of $742,084 for a demonstration, decentralized health care program for the county's indigent and low-income residents.

A decision on whether to institute the program in the southern portion of the county probably will be made by the board Friday when it considers the budget for Chope Community Hospital and for health care facilities maintained by the county.

Lester M. Cutting, president of the Governmental Research Council (GRC), urged the board to give close scrutiny to the proposed budget.

He singled out the sheriff's office request for 17 new positions as a "glaring example of government growth" and contended that, on the basis of GRC review "we do not feel these positions are necessary to effectively carry out law enforcement in this county." (The sheriff's budget is scheduled for review at 9 a.m. Thursday.)

Cutting offered, and the board accepted a GRC offer to supply a task force consisting of personnel executives from three large corporations to make an independent examination of the County Personnel Department in an effort to determine how the county might benefit from the personnel procedures used in business.

Tarshes said he welcomed the proposal, especially if the task force can identify things in the County Charter which might need change.

Passing some large budget proposals with comparatively little comment, the board became hung up on occasion in discussion of trivia.

For instance, Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald took exception to a recommendation by Dr. George Pickett, director of the county Department of Health and Welfare, that the department offer immunization for county residents planning foreign travel at a cost of $1 a shot.

Pickett and Tarshes said the fee would cover the cost of the shots and would require no staff increase. It is a service offered by many other counties, they pointed out.

Fitzgerald said he realized this, but felt the county should not embark on any new programs, expressing the concern that it might result in a "subtle increase" in costs over a period of time.

Included in the Parks and Recreation Department budget is $900,000 for the completion of phases I and II of Coyote Point Park, prompting Supervisor Robert St. Clair to request that a soccer field be included in the plan for the park.

Parks and Recreation Director John T. Brook Jr. noted that the park has only limited area (80 acres) and that it had been planned to designate the park for "passive" use without "structured" game areas in order that the park can be used by as many people as possible.

Supervisor William H. Royer sided with St. Clair, stating there are "some people who like to participate in active sports, and we shouldn't forget them."

Tarshes said that to designate a soccer field in the park would call for a change in the park master plan.

"That's exactly what I'm calling for," St. Clair stated. The matter was referred to Brook to determine if a soccer field can be fitted into the park plan.

The budget hearings resume today with the capital projects, library and payments to other agencies budgets scheduled for review beginning at 9 a.m.

'Defamation' in SSF Blasted

A spokesman for administrators of the South San Francisco Unified School District lashed out at district teachers for "continually defaming (the administrators) individually and collectively" at a trustee meeting Monday night.

Sheldon Winston, president of the SSFUSD Association of Administrative Personnel told trustees, "In recent years administrators have sat by and silently accepted teacher-written distortions, slanders and half truths, and somehow we are to accept all of this without comment and defense."

"The Association will no longer sit by and allow administrators, individually or as a group, to be recipients of unfounded and untruthful statements and/or allegations," Winston declared.

Winston's statement appeared to be a response to the attitude of some teachers in the district that too much attention is being paid to non-classroom related activities and especially to the insistence of the Classroom Teachers Association that teachers be allowed to evaluate administrators.

At Monday night's meeting, James O'Connell, a representative of the CTA requested the trustees meet in executive session to consider changing district policy of not accepting evaluation of administrators by teachers.

The CTA has conducted a teacher evaluation of administrators on its own, but the results have not been accepted by the board of trustees.

O'Connell said he hoped the board would reconsider its policy "Because we (CTA) believe the evaluation would be to the benefit of the school district."

Board president John Dillon told O'Connell the board had no intention of changing the district policy, because it had been determined by trustees that to allow the evaluation would leave administrators open to possible "slander" of which the administrators "would have no recourse."

"Then may I assume that any evaluation of the administration would be considered derogatory and/or slanderous by the board?" asked O'Connell.

"Right now our policy is not to accept evaluation of administrators by teachers," replied Dillon.

Bridge Class Is Planned

The Pacifica Bridge Club will sponsor a class in response to numerous requests.

Doris Anneson, one of the club's most consistent point winners, will teach the Goren System of bidding and playing in the Standard American System.

Duplicate and straight contract will be covered so players will feel at home in either game.

Pacifica Gets Single Bid on Construction

Pacifica city councilmen were surprised last year when they learned that they would not be able to use their plush new council chambers, on the top floor of the new $4½ million sewer treatment plant, unless they spent approximately $16,000 more on an elevator.

At the same time plans for the elevator were being drawn up, they asked the sewer plant consulting engineers, Consoer, Townsend & Associates, to also draw up plans for cosmetic treatment of the new pumping plant, replacing the Linda Mar sewer treatment plant.

Monday night, the Council learned that only one bidder responded for the project, Erbenraut & Summers of San Francisco. The cost—$81,525.

Councilmen finally awarded the contract for $73,125, an amount which Richard L. Foss of Consoer, Townsend & Associates managed to negotiate with the contracting firm.

The engineer's estimate of the project had climbed to $53,000, as the project finally went out to bid.

The council voted 4-1 Monday night to accept the one bid. In a turnabout, Mayor Aubrey Lumley opposed awarding the bid at all.

"That's a year's payment on a new civic center," he declared. "We can go on meeting here."

The council had been meeting for the past year in a recreation center building at Oddstad Park, which is a former church building. The council shares the building with the Pacifica Players, as well as a nursery school.

The project is expected to be completed within six months.

The council had been set to move into the new council chambers last October when Ken Faria, a neighborhood leader, called its attention to a state law prohibiting public buildings from having architectural barriers for handicapped persons.

Faria recently told the councilmen that as long as the project was actually going out to bid, he would no longer protest the council's move into its new chambers.

However, City Atty. John Sherman told the council that the law is the law—even though San Francisco, and other nearby cities are apparently ignoring it.

S. Bruno Contract Awarded

The Menlo Park firm of Huettig and Schromm, Inc., Monday night was awarded the contract for renovation of San Bruno's downtown San Mateo Avenue on a low bid of $419,817.40.

That bid was $15,917 over the engineering estimate because of alternative items which were reportedly "desirable for first-class construction of the project." The council appropriated $16,000 from general fund reserves to cover it.

Only two bids came in on the improvement project, which had a city-imposed ceiling of $500,000. The other firm was Kubit, Bortolotto and Kelly, Inc., of San Carlos with a bid of $599,857.60.

Councilman John Barnard expressed concern over receiving only two bids, and the difference between them. Councilman Dick Griffith, who has consistently questioned the wisdom of lending unsecured city monies for the project, voted against approval.

Said Barnard, "I'm concerned that we have only one legitimate bid. The other, which is $180,000 higher, is what I call a 'throw-in' bid—if you get the job you're in Fat City."

"How widely have we advertised? That's an enormous project," said Barnard.

City Engineer Leo Van Dusen said the project was advertised like every other city project, through the Daily Builder and the Daily Construction News, the two services contractors use to pick up jobs.

"In any project with construction problems such as time limits, requests for stores to remain open and providing access for the public, the contractors are going to lose interest," said Van Dusen.

"Huettig and Schromm specialize in this type of construction and the bid is satisfying as far as we're concerned in the estimating," he said.

City Manager Gerald Minford said to re-advertise would only raise the costs because of inflation.

Griffith, explaining his negative vote, said, "I have great reservations on the whole project, and the possibility of it being successful. I'm expressing a symbolic objection, and I hope I turn out to be mistaken."

The councilman also said he was concerned whether or not the merchants on the street would take it upon themselves to upgrade their store fronts and if the chamber of commerce was actively pursuing this aspect of total upgrading.

Jerry Chandler, chamber manager, said no formal committee has been established to work with the property owners on the street, but the intent is to do so.

"It took three years to put this (improvement project) together," said Chandler. "Now we'll be facing a hostile group which doesn't want to spend money to upgrade. It will be difficult to convince many of them," he said. "But we will be working diligently on it. That's phase II of the project."

The project, which was hoped to have been underway by the first of this month, is now at least two weeks behind the original schedule.

According to Van Dusen, the contractor should be on the job within 15 days of the contract's signing.

The intent is to have the street completed before the Christmas shopping season.

A STATEMENT FROM FRED KOHLENBERG

"Truth in advertising is the underlying creed of our business policy. When we advertise a price, it means TOTAL DELIVERED PRICE with NO EXTRA CHARGES! (Some dealers add up to $300 for service and handling) THIS IS ALL INCLUDED IN OUR PRICE! I invite you to check me out with your own inquiry.

Further: Truth in advertising means this: If the car you choose should be sold before you get here, YOU CAN BUY A DUPLICATE MODEL AT THE SAME LOW PRICE!"

Smoking in Bed Blamed For Fire

Smoking in bed was blamed by firemen for a noon-day fire which caused some $6,000 in damages to a Daly City home Sunday.

There were no injuries in the blaze which started under a bed in the home of Joseph Bean Jr., at 21 Bismarck St., according to Battalion Chief Mel Hansen.

Hansen said Joseph Bean Sr. was in the bedroom but escaped without injury when his daughter, Dorothy Carillo, smelled smoke and discovered the fire.

The woman grabbed her three-year-old son and fled the home after warning the elder Bean, Hansen said.
